Request Reading At Trial

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — The Harrisburg Seven conspiracy jury asked again today that the judge reread his instructions on the law and give them more testimony of the government's key witness against antiwar priest Philip Berrigan and six other peace activists.

U.S. District Court Judge R. Dixon Herman said he would not read his two-hour charge nor provide transcripts of the testimony of paid FBI informer Boyd F. Douglas Jr. But Judge Herman said he would "be happy to read any specific portions" of either his charge or the transcripts.

The jury Sunday found Berrigan guilty of smuggling a letter out of a federal prison. It reported being deadlocked on nine other counts but was ordered by the judge to resume deliberations today because of what he said was the importance and cost of the 11-week trial. He said he would dismiss the jury only if it became "hopelessly deadlocked."

When the jurors filed into the courtroom today they were noticeably more relaxed and smiling than on Sunday, when they appeared tense and tired.

Among the counts unresolved is the key conspiracy charge that includes the plot to kidnap White House aide Henry A. Kissinger, blow up the steam-heating system in Washington, D.C., and vandalize draft board offices in nine states.

The jury last week, at the start of the deliberations which now are in the fifth day, requested and received four days of Douglas' 14-day testimony. They have not been given the other 20 volumes which cover approximately 6,000 pages of testimony.

The panel found Berrigan guilty Sunday afternoon of smuggling a letter out of prison, for which he could get up to 10 years in jail. The decision was announced after 33 hours of deliberation over four days.

Unresolved were these counts on which the jury said it could not reach unanimous

To Enemy Offensive

Preparing For Air Answer

SAIGON (AP) — The United States recalled two aircraft carriers to the Tonkin gulf today to reinforce a massive air strike force preparing to hit back at an enemy offensive in South Vietnam's northernmost province.

"When the weather clears we're going to sock it to them," said one senior pilot.

The carrier Kitty Hawk arrived in waters off Vietnam today and the Constellation was steaming in from Japan to join the Coral Sea and the Hancock. The four carriers and their approximately 275 warplanes, combined with 250 Air Force jets at bases in South Vietnam and Thailand, will form the biggest U.S. attack force since the 1968 bombing halt.

The U.S. Command strongly indicated massive air strikes are planned—against North Vietnam to retaliate for the enemy offensive across the demilitarized zone and against enemy troops and materiel already engaged south of the zone.

U.S. pilots said targets inside North Vietnam would include long-range artillery guns bombarding South Vietnamese positions across the DMZ and a reserve infantry division poised just north of the zone.

Other key targets will include tanks, self-propelled artillery pieces and other heavy equipment that North Vietnam is using more than ever before in the Indochina war.

Forecasters said they did not expect fully clear skies until Tuesday or Wednesday. But the U.S. Command set the stage for the massive retaliatory attack with a statement that the North Vietnamese attack across the demilitarized zone threatened U.S. forces still in Vietnam, and the command was utilizing its "remaining air and gunfire assets as appropriate to protect our diminishing forces."

The North Vietnamese ground attack slowed down today, but the Communists pushed more heavy weapons across the demilitarized zone and U.S. fighter-bombers and destroyers pounded a column of 50 North Vietnamese tanks below the DMZ.

The invading North Vietnamese pushed 10 miles below the DMZ over the weekend, driving the South Vietnamese from two more bases and shooting down three U.S. helicopters and a small spotter plane. Eight American helicopter crewmen were missing and believed dead.

Other Communist forces attacked Fire Base Anne, eight miles west of Quang Tri City; overran an artillery base on the Cambodian border, Fire Base Pace; and kept up artillery attacks in the central highlands. But the North Vietnamese withdrew from Pace, and the South Vietnamese reoccupied it today, the Saigon command said.

The North Vietnamese also were reported moving antiaircraft missile launchers to the frontier to attack American and South Vietnamese planes below the DMZ.

A break in the heavy cloud cover allowed U.S. jets to make 128 strikes against enemy gun and troop positions below the buffer zone, the heaviest raids in South Vietnam since Feb. 18.

American jets also streaked into North Vietnam to blast antiaircraft missile sites five miles above the demilitarized zone, but it was not known what they hit.

The biggest Communist push since the 1968 Tet offensive is now in its fifth day. The South Vietnamese have retreated 10 miles back from the DMZ and abandoned a dozen bases. At least 5,000 South Vietnamese reinforcements were ordered to the northern front.

Scores of North Vietnamese tanks were reported to have crossed the frontier, but their advance was blocked by a blown-out bridge at Dong Ha, 10 miles below the DMZ.

Associated Press correspondent Holger Jensen reported from the northern front that the Dong Ha River in effect had become the new front line.

Jensen said there had been no serious attempts by the North Vietnamese to cross the river so far.

Flee Their Village

Carrying their meager belongings, South Vietnamese civilians — as far as the eye can see — pour out of Quang Tri as fighting intensified Sunday and Communist tanks moved to within several miles of the town. Military sources said that the contested city of Dong Ha, eight miles north of Quang Tri, which had been evacuated by most of its 10,000 people and set afire by Communist artillery, was firmly back in South Vietnamese control today. At Jefferson City

See Appropriation Controversy

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Appropriations for 1972-73 are expected to provide the most controversy in this week's short legislative work week.

The Senate reconvenes at 4 p. m. Tuesday and the House at 1 p. m. Wednesday after an Easter recess that started last Wednesday. It will mark the beginning of the final splurge of a session that has to end April 30.

But the appropriation bills for the 1972-73 budget must be passed by April 22 and the Senate is scheduled to start debating them Wednesday. There is growing controvery over the money bills with the Senate and House figures miles apart at this point.

The Senate Appropriations Committee whacked more than $30 million from Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' budget, partly by cutting a proposed increase in state aid for schools from $35 million to $20 million. The House approved the full $35 million.

The governor said Friday the Senate committee cut made no sense and would penalize school districts because their budgets already are made up with the expectation they would get the full amount that can be paid if funds become available. If it is limited to $20 million, he said, the schools couldn't get the money even if it's in the treasury.

Sen. Donald Manford, D-Kansas City, said his committee had to reduce the amount because its projections showed the state would not have the revenue to pay the bill. If the money becomes available, he said, an emergency appropriation for the remaining $15 million would be a top priority job for the 1973 session next January.

One of the big arguments is expected to be a last minute estimate by the Department of Revenue that this year's allotment may fall as much as $18 million short of being enough to pay income tax refunds.

The legislature just found out about that a few weeks ago and both Manford and Sen. J. F. Patterson, D-Caruthersville, the president pro tem and former appropriations chairman, were hot about the delayed report.

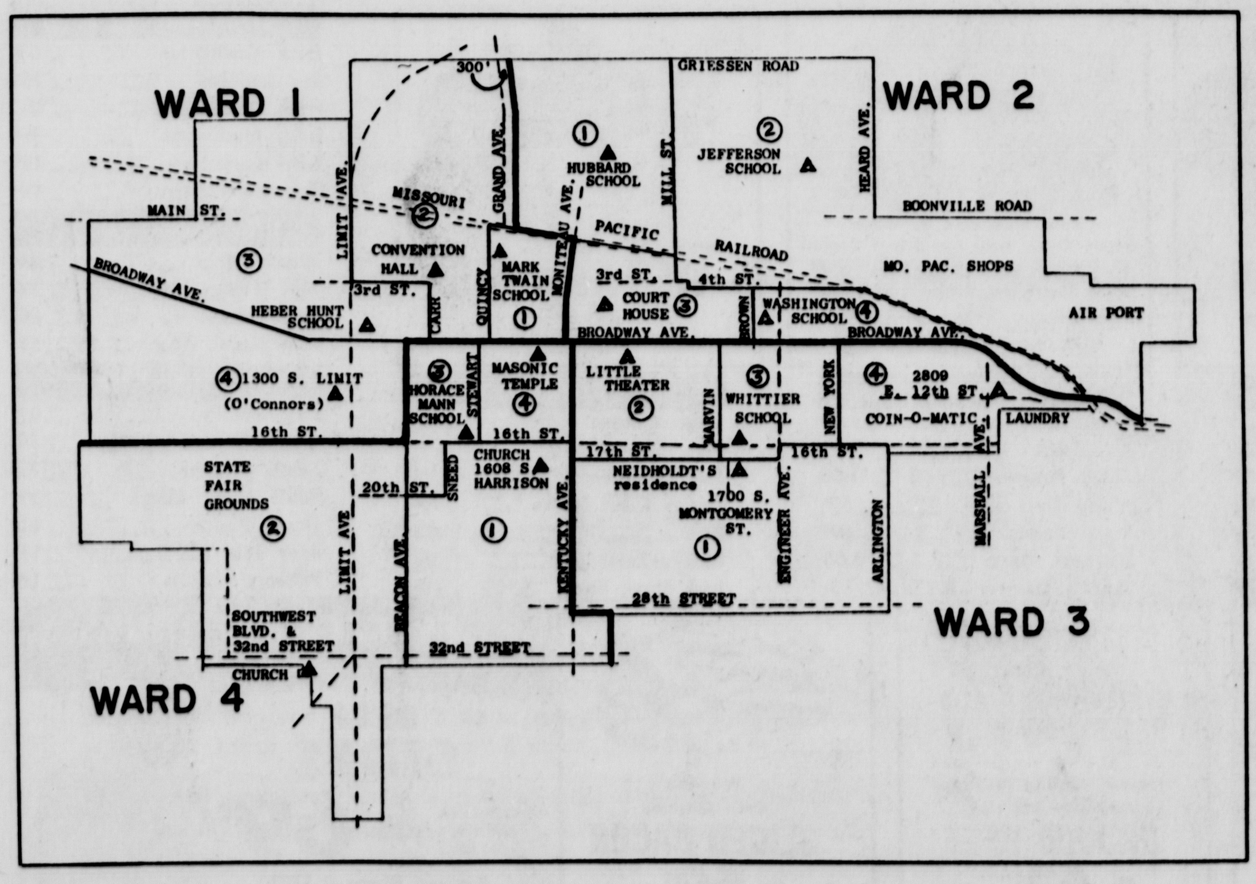

They came close to saying it was a put-up job.

Aside from appropriations, both houses will be busy passing bills.

The house finished first debate on its own bills last week and Rep. Richard J. Rabbitt, D-St. Louis, is expected to strike the remaining undebated bills when the House returns Wednesday. The House majority leader forgot to do it when the House adjourned last Wednesday for the Easter recess.

The Senate first round calendar is still intact and Sen. William J. Cason, D-Clinton, Senate majority leader, said he would keep the bills alive but would move that they no longer be printed in the daily journal.

If some emergency arises, he said, that would enable the Senate to reach down and take up one of the pending bills if necessary, but that is not expected to happen.

Polling Places

Shown above are the city's 16 polling places, four in each ward, where Sedalians will cast ballots in Tuesday's general city election. Included in the vote will be two contested city council seats, two openings on the Sedalia School District 200 board, a proposal to increase the school tax levy 65 cents to $3.62 per $100 assessed valuation and an advisory vote on fluoridating the city's water supply. Democratic candidates are running without opposition for city collector, city attorney, city police judge, and first and second ward councilmen. City clerk Ralph Dedrick said Monday 243 absentee ballots had been received in his office and will be counted there two hours after voting begins at 6 a.m. Polls will close at 7 p.m.

City Hall Bids Will Be Opened

The opening of bids on the new city hall building, which will be financed through the sale of $600,000 in general obligation bonds, will be the major item of business at the first City Council meeting in April at 7:30 o'clock tonight at city hall.

Mayor Jerry Jones told The Democrat-Capital several weeks ago that bids will also be awarded at the Council session unless they are considered too complex and requiring further study by the Council.

The expected action at the Council meeting, culminates about seven months of site testing and development of plans by city officials and architects.

Authority for the construction of the city hall structure came as a result of voter approval in a bond election last September. At that time, a large majority of voters approved the retirement of the bonds through the use of city sales tax monies. The new structure will be located just west of the current building, constructed in the 1890's. The building site is now used as a city parking lot on Second Street.

Jones estimated the project could be paid off in about 10 years if the city committed $70,000 annually from sales tax revenue toward the cost of the building.

The City Council advertised for bids on the new building in a March 7 meeting.

Action is also expected on three requests for zoning changes already approved by the Sedalia Planning and Zoning Commission.

Over Custody

Court Gives Ruling On Unwed Fathers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today ruled, 5 to 2, that states may not automatically take away the children of unwed fathers.

Dealing with an appeal of a Chicago man, the court said a natural parent—male or female—should have a chance to prove his fitness.

"It may be, as the state insists, that most unmarried fathers are neglectful parents," said Justice Byron R. White, "... But all unmarried fathers are not in this category. Some are wholly suited to have custody of their children."

In other action, the court:

—Ruled that Louisiana cannot systematically limit the number of minority group members eligible to serve on criminal court juries. But the court failed to answer another question advanced in the case— whether the state also could automatically exempt women from jury duty.

—Held that states have no authority to regulate the discharge of radioactive wastes from nuclear power plants, even if they want to impose more stringent controls than the federal government.

—Allotted 30 minutes to the U.S. Senate to present arguments in favor of Sen. Mike Gravel of Alaska in an offshoot of the Pentagon Papers issue. The arguments will be heard next term.

—Agreed to decide next term whether an IRS summons for the record of a taxpayer held by his accountant constitutes an unreasonable search and seizure and violates Fifth Amendment guarantees against self-incrimination.

—Opened the way for five Indianapolis women to challenge an Indiana welfare regulation that bars aid to dependent children until the father is absent from the home for six months.

—Agreed to decide whether payments to a retirement fund for doctors in a medical partnership are taxable.

The father, Peter Stanley, lost his three children to the State of Illinois upon the death of the woman with whom he had been living, on and off, for 18 years.

Stanley appealed, claiming he had never been shown to be an unfit parent.

Justice White said the Illinois law violates the 14th Amendment because it discriminates against unwed fathers.

In Illinois, unwed mothers and married fathers—whether divorced, widowed or separated—are presumed fit to raise their children.

"We conclude that as a matter of due process of law, Stanley was entitled to a hearing on his fitness as a parent before his children were taken from him and that by denying him a hearing ... the state denied Stanley the equal protection of the law," White said in the majority opinion.

Most states are believed to impose similar barriers to unwed fathers—requiring them to prove their fitness if they want to retain their children.

Ann Landers

Toys of Today Tell of Torture

Dear Ann Landers: I've never written to you before but I've got to check with somebody to make sure I'm sane. If I'm in my right mind, a lot of people in this world are crazy.

Recently, I attended a rock concert. I didn't know such madness existed until that night. A guy gets up in girl's clothes, eye makeup galore and a ton of jewelry. He does a number where he chops off a doll's head and sings a song called "Dead Babies." At the end of his act he hangs himself.

That creepy show was a sell-out. Twenty-thousand people screamed their heads off and applauded till their hands were raw. I left after the fifth encore and I don't mind telling you I whoopsed my cookies. What is there in people that makes them enjoy such sick stuff? Did they have it when you were teen-agers? What do you make of it, Ann? — Square Peg In A Round Hole

Dear Peg: When I was a teen-ager there were a few horror films around, such as Frankenstein and Dracula. But we didn't have the steady diet of violence the kids get today in movies and on TV — not to mention a live war in living color, every night on the 6 o'clock news.

Would you believe our sick society has produced a market for torture toys? One of the best selling items is a doll that screams when placed on a torture rack by a monster in a blood-splattered white coat. The customer has a choice of victims — a man, woman or child.

For $5.88 you can buy a Vietnam battleground. Dead and dying soldiers are all over the place in grotesque positions, with horrible expressions on their faces — gaping wounds and missing limbs. For $1.99 you can own a doll named Vampirella. She comes equipped with a beaker of blood. If all this isn't symptomatic of a warped society, I'd like to know what is.

Dear Ann Landers: "I'll Know Where To Look In Fargo" was the last straw. That idiot refers to himself as a happily married man for over thirty years, and says if anything ever happens to his dear wife he's going to look for a lady over 40. Why? Because, he explains in his half-baked way, "She won't yell. She won't tell. She won't swell. She'll be grateful as hell."

I'll bet he already has his next wife picked out, and I hope he gets what's coming to him. My brother-in-law had the same idea, only he didn't wait until my sister died. The lady he was sneaking around with was over 40 — but she yelled, told, swelled and showed her gratitude by naming him in a paternity suit. His reputation was mud in our town after that ugly incident and my sister died of heart trouble as a result of it.

I'd like to know why a man who describes himself as "happily married" is thinking about what he'd like in the way of a second wife. And to sit down and write to Ann Landers about it suggests a strange preoccupation with the subject. If that man were MY husband I'd be afraid to fall asleep in the same bed with him. Do you agree? Or am I paranoid? — Third-Eye Eleanor

Dear T.E.E.: I receive all kinds of letters from all kinds of people. Merely because a person write along odd lines doesn't mean he's "planning anything." I do agree, however, that he might be indulging in some wishful thinking. You are right about women swelling and yelling after 40. It happens all the time.

Airman Ora A. Casdorph Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora A. Casdorph, Route 2, has graduated at Sheppard AFB, Tex., from the Air Force heavy equipment operator course conducted by the Air Training Command.

The airman, now trained to operate construction and specialized maintenance equipment, is being assigned to Forbes AFB, Kan., for duty with a unit of the Tactical Air Command which provides combat units for air support of U.S. ground forces.

Airman Casdorph is a 1970 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School. His wife, Barbara, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne H. Byrd, 501 North Prospect.

Youths Discover Patient's Body

OSAWATOMIE, Kan. (AP) — The body of James Walsh, 83, formerly of Crawford County, a patient missing from Osawatomie State Hospital since March 19, has been found.

Sheriff Leslie N. Barrett of Miami County said the body was found by six boys Sunday on the bank of Pottawatomie Creek about a mile south of Osawatomie.

Barrett said Walsh apparently walked from a residence hall to the spot where his body was found.

About 100 persons and an airplane took part in a search for Walsh when he was reported missing.

Revamping Petition Announced

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Plans for a statewide initiative petition campaign to place two proposals for state government reorganization on the November ballot will be announced this week in Jefferson City, State. Sen. Paul L. Bradshaw, R-Springfield, said Sunday.

Bradshaw said the campaign will be handled by the Citizens Committee for State Government Reform, which he heads, and the formal announcement of his campaign will be made by State Rep. R. J. King, a Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination.

Bradshaw said the two proposals are presently in the form of constitutional amendments, which have been stalled in the Missouri General Assembly. They were drafted by the State Reorganization Commission.

One proposal would combine some 80 state agencies into 10 or 11 departments. The other would coordinate the operations of state universities and colleges.

Bradshaw said the purpose of the initiative campaign is to bypass the legislature and take the government reorganization issue directly to the voters.

VOTE DEMOCRATIC
Tuesday, April 4

The Republican councilman from the Third Ward had a notice in the paper. Here are some of the things that he is claiming that he has done while he has been councilman.

Item No. 1 — Which was the new fire station. The new fire station was proposed by Larry Englund, a Democratic councilman at that time and plans were being prepared. Mr. Gwinn was not a councilman at this time.

Item No. 2 — The new swimming pool for the Third Ward that is being built in the Centennial Park. This was started when Bob Wells was Councilman and with the help of all the women, particularly women of the Third Ward, they started the petitions with several hundred signers for the swimming pool. The petitions were presented to Mr. Wells and he presented them to the Council. This is one of the items that helped pass the one cent city sales tax.

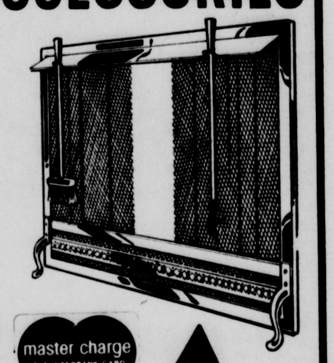

Item No. 3 — New City Hall, this was also being paid by over a period of years out of the one cent sales tax.

Item No. 4 — Raise for city employees, the people made all these projects possible, by voting on the one cent sales tax. This was all accomplished when there was six Democratic councilman and two Republican councilman.

First, show him how to dial "0" for Operator in an emergency. Learning this one number could save his life someday.

Second, help him memorize his home telephone number. If he's lost it's better than a compass.

Then, when he is ready, show him how to look up numbers in the phone book.

Emphasize that the phone is no plaything. A phone is more than just a phone if you know how to use it. It can be a lifeline.

Springfield Banker Dies in His Sleep

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Tom W. Watkins, 76, a prominent Springfield banker, has died.

Watkins apparently died in his sleep Saturday night.

Watkins began working in the Citizens Bank in 1914 and became president eight years ago. He had been chairman of the board the last six years.

Lawrence Lamb, M. D.

Ailment Sounds Like an Allergy

Dear Dr. Lamb—Recently I had a CBC (complete blood count) because I had what seemed to be a cold and cough. The blood test showed 13 per cent eosinophils (I was told normal was 2 per cent). I am bothered with sniffles and sneezing almost every morning but several times a year it gets almost unbearable.

What could some of the possible causes be? I am getting tired of being checked and told I have a cold, as surely it should go away sometime.

Dear Reader—Your story suggests that you have an allergy, not a cold. There are different types of white blood cells. The group called eosinophils have a special color and are often more prevalent in people who have allergies. This, of course, could also account for your other symptoms.

You should see an allergist and have studies done to identify your allergies, and then treatment. Some people can be desensitized to whatever they are allergic to by the injection of very small diluted amounts of the same substance. The amount of the substance injected is gradually increased until the person's tolerance is increased.

Dear Dr. Lamb—About two years ago I injured my foot on the inside directly over the large joint. Within a short time a cone-shaped growth appeared under the skin and my surgeon removed it. He warned that I would have a sore foot and I did. It was extremely disabling and took six months to heal. The doctor identified the problem as a keloid, saying that there was a good chance that it would grow back. He asked if there was any Negro blood in my family as they seem to have a higher susceptibility to these growths. There is none.

Now if I walk this irritates the skin. Recently it has been reddish and itching, especially at night. Could this mean it is healing inside or that further growth is taking place? It is impossible to find a shoe that will not press on it other than a toe thong sandal. Maybe I should move to the tropics and go barefoot. Will it give me trouble as I grow older? Any information will be appreciated.

Dear Reader—A keloid is a form of skin tumor that is related to overgrowth of scar tissue where the skin has been injured or cut. It is true that they occur more frequently in dark-skinned individuals and they are more apt to occur in individuals before the age of 35.

A person who forms keloids is apt to form a new keloid at the site where the old one is cut out. That is probably what your surgeon meant. Sometimes keloids can be cured by cutting them out and then applying radiation to the area. The radiation helps to prevent a recurrence of the scar tissue tumor. Such keloid tumors are not likely to go away by themselves so you will probably need to see your doctor again for treatment. You might ask about the possible use of radiation in the area immediately after surgery to prevent its recurrence.

Costly Navy Fighter Headaches Are Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — A costly new Navy fighter plane may give Congress a fresh headache if the prime contractor insists on more money to build it.

Evidence indicates that the contractor, Grumman Aerospace Corp., will demand more money than provided in the original contract for building the swing-wing F14 fighter the Navy claims it needs.

The looming debate has raised the specter of the C5, the giant military cargo plane whose cost far exceeded the original estimate and left some congressional pursewatchers enraged.

"We want to make damn sure this doesn't turn into another C5 controversy," said an aide to one Senate Armed Services subcommittee member.

Grumman officials are scheduled to testify before the subcommittee April 17 as it continues its investigation of the project.

"They'll be here, hat in hand, looking for a new contract to cover their losses," another observer said of Grumman.

According to a General Accounting Office audit published last September, Grumman will lose at least $367 million by the time all 313 planes have been researched, built and delivered.

The tab would come to $5.2 billion, including research and development, separate contracts with the engine manufacturer and electronics firm, and the Grumman contract. That's about $16.8 million per plane.

Grumman's share would be a maximum of about $2 billion, according to a committee aide.

Grumman refuses to divulge its estimate of expected losses. But Navy and Grumman officials and the subcommittee's acting chairman, Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev., are known to have discussed the firm's projected losses in a closed hearing last week.

Despite the secrecy, there are indications the Bethpage, N.Y., firm will use its subcommittee appearance to:

—Claim its current contract was invalidated by Navy delays and design changes.

—And insist on a rewritten contract that would include enough extra money to wipe out future losses.

Fourth Ward Republican Candidate For City Councilman

A.G. "CY" CLINE

Every voter who is employed is entitled to a three-hour period for voting without loss of pay. Not everyone can hold or aspire to public office, but everyone should take an active part in selecting and guiding our city officials. Some say that the U.S. is not a democracy but a republic. They are half right. We are a republic in that we are governed by those we select for public office, but we are also very much a democracy when it comes to making that selection. Vote for your best qualified candidate.

FRESH BREAD FLAVOR

FLUORIDATION Is Not For Everyone

An alternative to water fluoridation, which is far more desirable and acceptable than water fluoridation, is to subsidize local school districts to add sodium fluoride to the milk in the elementary schools from kindergarten through the third grade. The fluoridation of milk in the elementary schools has the following advantages:

1. It would be consumed for only those few years of a child's life when it is most beneficial.

2. Only those children whose teeth are in the formative stage of tooth development would receive the fluoride.

3. It would be administered in the presence of large quantities of calcium - which enhances its safety to the health.

4. A more carefully controlled and accurate daily dosage can be administered.

5. There would probably be no appreciable danger to the health since the fluoride would be ingested for only the few formative years rather than for a lifetime.

6. There would be no opposition to it since it can be made a voluntary choice on the part of the children's parents as to whether or not their children should take fluoridated milk or plain untreated milk.

7. Any children allergic to the fluoride could receive unfluoridated milk instead.

8. There would be no expense to the municipality at all since the Federal Government would subsidize it.

9. The constitutional right of freedom of choice on the part of the individual would not be usurped since parents will have the right to choose whether or not their children will drink fluoridated milk.

10. It would not add to the contamination of all of our foods processed with water nor create any greater general pollution of our environment.

I contend that fluoridation of drinking water is not in the best interest of the majority; it is not the best nor the most sensible method of administering fluoride; that it arouses much opposition; and that it is harmful to many and of no benefit to the great majority.

Argentine Kidnapers Arrested

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Alejandro Lanusse announced late Sunday that the kidnapers of Oberdan Sallustro had been arrested but the Italian automobile man was still missing.

More than 5,000 police kept up the search for the 56-year-old general manager of Fiat's Argentine subsidiary. He was seized March 21 by guerrillas of the Trotskyite People's Revolutionary Army, the ERP.

"The investigation will continue in an effort to locate his whereabouts," Lanusse told a near-midnight news conference at the presidential residence.

The police said they raided a house in the northern suburb of Chilavert where Sallustro had been kept, but he had been transferred to another ERP commando group four hours before the police closed in.

The missing man's fingerprints were found in the cellar of the Chilavert house along with the bed in which he was shown in photographs distributed by the ERP, police said. A communique said $25,000 also was found in the house.

Lanusse said the abductors had been "identified and arrested," but he did not give their names or say how many were picked up. He said they were members of the Workers Revolutionary Party, an illegal political group which split into two factions two years ago, with militants forming the ERP.

Last week, police named six men and a woman as the kidnapers; and unofficial sources said at least six persons had been arrested.

Sallustro's company agreed to pay $1 million ransom demanded by the kidnapers, but Lanusse ordered the firm to do nothing that would aid the guerrillas "concretely or psychologically."

There were rumors Fiat had paid a ransom and that Sallustro had been freed, but company officials denied it.

The ERP said it wanted the money used to buy clothing and school supplies for poor children. It also demanded the release of political and labor prisoners and rehiring of Fiat workers dismissed last year.

DEATH NOTICES

Mrs. Charles E. Yeater

Mrs. Charles E. Yeater, 91, of 624 West Seventh, died at 7:25 p.m. Sunday at her home.

She was born Nov. 3, 1880 in Hannibal, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Doyle.

She moved to Sedalia at an early age and attended the Sedalia public schools.

She was married to Harry Hawkins, who preceded her in death. In 1923 she was married to Charles E. Yeater, who preceded her in death in 1943.

She was a member of Calvary Episcopal Church, Sorosis and the Bothwell Lodge Club.

Surviving are two cousins Mrs. Elizabeth Willcoxon, Fayetteville, Ark., and Mrs. Carolin Sharp, San Diego, Calif.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the McLaughlin Funeral Home with the Rev. William E. Lusk officiating.

Music will be provided by Mrs. Robert Woolery, organist, and Mrs. Jack Herndon, soloist.

Pallbearers will be Ed McLaughlin, John Sneed, William Finley, Henry Salveter, A. J. Harlan and A. K. Downs.

Burial will be in Crown Hill Cemetery.

Frank Lemley

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla. — Frank Lemley, 73, a native of Knob Noster, Mo., died at his home here March 27.

He was the son of the late Mrs. Kate Howe, a lifelong resident of Sedalia, Mo.

He is survived by one son, Maurice Lemley, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services and burial were held Thursday at Bristow, Okla.

Mrs. Mabel Eaken

WARSAW — Mrs. Mabel Eaken, 71, of Warsaw, died Sunday at her home.

She was born near Warsaw on Nov. 8, 1900, the daughter of Ed and Laura Harrison Fisher.

In 1917 she was married to Bill Halligan, who preceded her in death. In 1937 she was married to Sam Eaken in Kansas City, who survives of the home.

They lived in Kansas City, Kan., until 1951 when they moved to the Warsaw area.

Survivors include a daughter, Mrs. Cora Drattlo, Indianapolis, Ind.; a son, Albert Halligan, Indianapolis, Ind.; six grandchildren; and a half-brother, Frank Jackson, Kansas City, Kan.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Reser Funeral Chapel with the Rev. J. D. Little officiating.

Burial will be in Turkey Creek Cemetery.

The family will receive friends Monday evening at the funeral chapel.

Requests Probing Of FDA

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Ralph Nader research group wants Congress to investigate what the consumer-advocate panel calls drug-industry influence in the Food and Drug Administration.

Nader's Health Research Group asked for the probe Sunday in an 18-page report, which also seeks a survey of possible conflicts-of-interest in the federal agency and establishment of guidelines for hiring consultants.

The report said two ranking FDA officials were demoted or reassigned last month because of industry complaints.

The FDA had no immediate comment.

The report said Dr. John Nestor, a physician-scientist in the FDA's cardio-pulmonary-renal drugs division, was shifted without notice to the Office of Compliance.

The report said Nestor was instrumental in blocking use in the United States of thalidomide, a drug that caused birth defects in Europe, and in taking the drug Mer-29 off the market after it was reported to have caused varying degrees of blindness.

Following Nestor's transfer, the report said, his boss—Dr. John Winkler—took a demotion rather than be transferred to the FDA's surgical-dental division.

"Under the guise of reorganization," the report said, "these actions again raise the serious yet unresolved question of who the FDA protects, the public or the industries it allegedly regulates."

The report also said the FDA employs consultants who are doing research for pharmaceutical firms. They are faced with conflicts of interest, the group said, although they do not deal directly with government regulation of drugs they are researching for private industry.

Injuries Received In One-Car Crash

Earl Boyd, 57, of 1302 South Quincy, was treated for facial lacerations at Bothwell Hospital and released Saturday after a one-car accident at 7:30 p.m. at 16th and Barrett. Boyd was injured in a collision with a utility pole.

The accident apparently occurred when Boyd, driving his 1965 Ford east on 16th Street, was blinded by the lights of a westbound vehicle. At this time, Boyd said, he did not see the corner with the pole on it. Police information confirmed that the curbing with the pole on it juts into the street six feet further than preceding curbing to the west.

Burglaries Heavy Over the Weekend

A burglary wave hit Sedalia residences, businesses and even vehicles for losses that may total in the thousands of dollars in cash and merchandise, between Friday night and Monday morning, police said Monday.

The weekend started off with a report of an attempted break-in at the William Messerli residence, sometime before 8:46 p.m. Saturday. Messerli told police that someone had tried to raise a locked window at his home. Entry to the home was not gained because the window had been nailed shut and could only be raised three inches.

Later attempts by the thieves were more successful and a series of residences and businesses were struck.

Larry A. Myers, 202 East 32nd, informed police that his home was forcibly entered and several rings, wristwatches and a necklace were taken Friday night or Saturday.

Dr. T. J. Norris, 1110 South Warren, said his home was also entered and some women's jewelry and a small amount of change was taken between 6 and 8 p.m. Sunday.

Thieves got away with a cash and coin collection, an undetermined amount of money and some jewelry at the Dr. R. E. Gouge residence, 1002 South Warren, sometime Sunday.

Clifford G. Abney, 617 West 32nd, told police a coin collection, a wristwatch, several handguns and assorted jewelry was taken from his home sometime Friday.

Between Sunday afternoon and Monday morning, thieves illegally entered the G and G Veterinary Clinic, 711 West Main, owned by Dr. R. E. Gouge, and got away with $35 in cash.

A truck belonging to Knight's TV Service, 117 East Third, was also broken into during the weekend and two television tube caddies and an undetermined amount of television tubes and accessories were taken.

The Democrat-Capital also learned that a jeep belonging to the U.S. Postal Service was broken into during the weekend, but it is not known what was taken.

Chief William Miller, in discussing the break-ins, said that most appeared to be the work of a single group of thieves. He requested that to prevent additional break-ins, private citizens could help by keeping the police department notified of strange happenings. "People should call us anytime they see or hear something suspicious," Miller said.

Miller was referring to the police department's crime alert program. He encouraged anyone seeing a crime or hearing about one to notify police immediately. "There is no obligation that a crime alert caller be identified," he added.

Trotter To Repay Money to County

Pettis County Assessor Jerry Trotter told The Democrat-Capital Monday that he will pay "this week" the two amounts of money he owes the county — $4,600 in fees he collected after his office dropped the fee system and changed to a salary-only basis, plus $1,193.12, the amount over-paid Trotter in mileage during 1971.

Trotter did not specify what day he will pay the amounts, but said they will be paid in a lump sum.

Last week Trotter said he was not informed of the 1970 legislation which removed county assessors offices from the fee to a salary system. According to the law which went into effect Sept. 1, 1970, assessors of third class counties are to be paid $13,500 a year, with no fees to be collected.

decisions:

—The key conspiracy charge against all seven defendants to kidnap Kissinger, obtain guns and explosives, blow up tunnels of a government heating system in Washington, D.C., and vandalize draft board offices and other federal agencies around the country.

—Two counts that deal with letters exchanged by Berrigan and Sister Elizabeth McAlister containing a threat to kidnap Kissinger.

—Six that deal with attempts to smuggle prison mail.

Herman rejected a defense motion of prejudice because of the split verdict at the same time he ordered the jury to continue deliberating.

"Because of the expense of the trial and the unlikelihood that in a retrial we could get a better jury, I'm going to ask you to go back and try to reach a verdict on the other counts," the judge told the jurors.

It was estimated that the 15-month-old case has cost the government nearly $1 million, and the defense about half that.

Paul O'Dwyer, one of the six defense lawyers, protested the judge's order.

"If jurors are forced to deliberate long past the point when they say they can't make up their minds, it is a forced decision and not a decision in justice," O'Dwyer told newsmen.

Should there be a hung jury, the decision to try the unresolved charges again would rest with the Justice Department.

The 48-year-old gary-haired Berrigan, his right arm circling Sister Elizabeth, appeared undisturbed at first when the verdict was read—and then a thin grin creased his face.

Later, Berrigan's priest brother, Daniel Berrigan—both have been convicted of destroying draft files in Maryland—quoted the still imprisoned Philip as saying, "'This jury is quite a jury.'

"He is delighted that things are going slowly and thoughtfully," Daniel Berrigan said. "It gives us a measured optimism we didn't have a few days ago."

O'Dwyer said Berrigan never will be sentenced for the letter smuggling conviction.

"It's the first time in American law that I know of that anyone was prosecuted for sending a letter out of a penitentiary," O'Dwyer said. "This is a discriminatory prosecution and it won't lie. This verdict will be set aside."

Withdrawal Is Favored By Humphrey

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey said today the withdrawal of U.S. troops from Vietnam should continue unabated. But he said South Vietnam might require more military aid to withstand the latest enemy attacks.

Humphrey told a news conference any aid should be in the form of supplies and that U.S. policy should move toward full disengagement of U.S. personnel.

Winding up his Wisconsin primary campaign with a 20-hour schedule, Humphrey declined to predict his standing in Tuesday's voting.

Sen. George S. McGovern toured a construction site in Milwaukee, then appealed for blue-collar votes at a meeting of labor officials.

"I think we're going to be all right," he said. "I still say we're going to win."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine was taping a primary eve television appeal for votes, then touring Milwaukee in a final personal bid for ballots.

All the campaigning entries in Wisconsin's primary were at work among the voters.

McGovern said Sunday the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. didn't pay federal income taxes the past three years, but ITT promptly disputed this. And McGovern retracted a second accusation that ITT listed a $400,000 contribution to the Republican National Convention as a business expense in a report to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

McGovern's charges against the conglomerate, storm center of Senate hearings on President Nixon's nomination of Richard Kleindienst as attorney general, were made on a nationally televised television show on an otherwise quiet Sunday before Tuesday's Wisconsin presidential primary.

permission to place a double-wide mobile home on the southeast corner of Clay and Osage Streets.

J. D. Sherman, the owner of Calvary Temple, requested a zoning change from residential R-1 zoning to C-0 uses identified with professional offices for property located at 12th and Ohio.

R. E. Schultz, Broadway Realty, is asking permission to change from single-family zoning to multiple-family zoning an area south of Highway 50 and east of Olsen Road.

Destruction of coupons will also take up some of the council's time. Parking system coupons amounting to $5,566.25 will be destroyed, along with $32,450 in council coupons and bonds from Duke Manufacturing Co.

Three beer and liquor licenses will also come up for renewal.

Pre-Trial Hearing Scheduled on Dam

A pre-trial hearing closed to the public will be held in U.S. District Court in Kansas City Wednesday. The hearing will consider a suit filed last month by the Environmental Defense Fund to stop construction of the Harry S. Truman Reservoir Project.

The suit cites failure by the Corps of Engineers to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 as the basis of the action.

Kennie Miller, Sedalia co-ordinator for the Truman Reservoir Citizens Defense Fund, said the pre-trial hearing is not open to members of his group, either.

The group Miller is associated with is seeking to raise money to fight the EDF suit.

Protest Catholic Refusal

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Roman Catholic women called a demonstration in Belfast today to protest the refusal of the Catholic guerrillas of the Irish Republican Army to halt their campaign of violence.

The women scheduled their demonstration in the Andersonstown section, an IRA stronghold, after the leader of the underground army's Provisional wing, Sean MacStiofain, rejected their call for a truce in the war against British forces in Northern Ireland.

It was in Andersonstown that Martha Crawford, a 39-year-old mother of 10 children and a Catholic, was killed in the crossfire during a battle between British troops and IRA gunmen last week.

The demonstrations gave new evidence of growing Catholic opinion in favor of giving the British government's new peace initiatives a chance. These include suspension of the Protestant provincial government, direct rule from London and gradual release of IRA suspects interned without trial.

William Cardinal Conway, the Catholic primate of Ireland, in an Easter radio interview threw his church's influence against IRA terrorism for the first time in the 32 months of civil strife. He sharply criticized the guerrilla chiefs' decision to continue the bombing and shooting and asked them: "What right have you to continue the campaign of violence against the unanimous voice of the Irish people?"

But MacStiofain told a rally in Londonderry that the guerrilla campaign would continue until British troops leave Northern Ireland.

"I hope to God that the nationally minded women of the North will stand behind their menfolk, behind the men behind the wire and the prison wall—and the men who are carrying on the fight," he said.

Two Are Injured In Car Accident

WARRENSBURG — John M. Smultz, 19, and Richard Hensley, 15, both of Warrensburg, were treated for minor injuries and released from Johnson County Memorial Hospital here after a one-car accident at 6:30 a.m. Sunday. The accident occurred on Route 13, 2.3 miles north of Highway 50.

According to the Missouri Highway Patrol, the accident occurred when the southbound 1964 Ford sedan driven by Smultz met another car on his side of the pavement. When Smultz swerved to miss that car, he said, he lost control, went into a ditch and overturned. The other vehicle left the scene.

Hensley was a passenger in the Smultz vehicle.

Dita Beard Consents To Interview

NEW YORK (AP) — Dita Beard, the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp. lobbyist who collapsed a week ago while testifying before a Senate subcommittee, has left her hospital bed to give a television interview.

Mrs. Beard, 53, has been hospitalized in Denver with a heart ailment since March 3, shortly after columnist Jack Anderson printed a controversial memorandum attributed to her.

In the interview shown Sunday night on CBS's "60 Minutes," Mrs. Beard repeated her denial that she had written sections of the memo dealing with the government's settling of three antitrust cases against ITT.

The memo sparked a Senate subcommittee probe of a possible link between the out-of-court antitrust settlement and an ITT pledge of financial assistance to the GOP National Convention in San Diego.

A week ago Sunday the subcommittee members went to her room in the Rocky Mountain Osteopathic Hospital but their inquiry was cut short when she collapsed. Her doctors said she might never be able to testify again.

Before her collapse, Mrs. Beard had promised an interview to CBS correspondent Mike Wallace.

Coin Laundries Are Her Pet Peeve

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — My Pet Peeve is with coin laundries that are certainly not planned with the ladies in mind. First, when we are loaded down with heavy baskets of wash, soap, etc., it is terrible to try to get in the door. You have to put everything down, open the door, hold it open with your rear end while you hurry to pick up the basket and try to get in before the door closes on you. Why can't they have swing doors so that one could get in as easy as they can usually get out? Another thing is that many of them do not have rods to hang shirts on as they are taken out of the dryer. If they would use some ideas from women they would certainly be a lot better. — MRS. S.

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have so many of those plastic eggs that some panty hose come in and would like to know if someone has a suggestion as to what I could do with them. — BRIDGET

DEAR POLLY — Marian can solve the problem she has sorting some 64 pairs of dark socks for her husband and sons by giving each male in the family a package of small safety pins and a small mesh laundry bag. Have them pin each pair of socks together as they take them off and then put them in the bag so the socks and bag can be laundered all together. — MABEL

DEAR GIRLS — This was the method suggested by so many of you — thanks to you all. Modena said she puts drawstrings of different colors in the bag tops so the proper bag of clean socks gets back to its rightful owner. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I have a practical use for baby food jars. When my small son had a gelatin dessert added to his diet list, I started making up a large box of the dessert and then pouring it into these small jars. This makes enough for several days and the jars take up little space in the refrigerator. Neater and easier than scooping some out of a bowl and putting it into a small dish. — MRS. J. H.

DEAR POLLY — An easy way to mark your luggage is to spray-paint a white strip and then write on your name and address with a permanent marking pen. If you address changes, just paint over that part and then apply the new address. This helps prevent the loss of luggage that may occur when tie-on tags are torn off. — SIIBYL

DEAR POLLY — A relative has a novel way to clean his swimming pool. He has the family run around the inside rim to create a whirlpool. All the sediment gathers in the center and then he vacuums it out, making short work of a mean task. — MRS. J. J. T.

Photograph a Home Inventory

By AP Newsfeatures

If you had to make a list of every item in your wardrobe—coats, dresses, suits, slacks, lingerie—all of it—could you do it? Then could you list all the books in your library, or all the knicknacks you picked up on your last vacation?

Who would ask you to make a list like that? Your insurance company. It's the only way they have of figuring out how much to pay you for what possessions have been destroyed.

That's why insurance companies and their agents advise their customers to make a list of their possessions—furniture, books, china, clothing—everything. And they further advise those with homeowners or tenants insurance to keep this list in a safe place.

George M. Snyder, vice president of Insurance Co. of North America recalls once when he was sent out to see a family whose home had been destroyed by fire. "Together we made up a list of things the family had lost," he said. "It took hours to put together. Several days later, the woman phoned my office to tell me they'd completely forgotten to list the contents on one room in the house. As unlikely a story as that may seem, it happens all the time."

But even a number of insurance people admit they haven't done a home inventory. Why? Because it's tedious, time consuming and difficult to update.

One way to accomplish the same thing, however, is with photographs. Open the closet doors, spread out your clothes a little so a corner of each thing is in view and, click! Now turn around and photograph the bookcase on the other side of the room. And keep going until you have a visual record of your entire house or apartment.

Tuck the photos in an envelope and take them to your safety deposit box or another safe place. Then make a note on your calendar to update your visual list in a year, either with new photos or a list of things you've acquired in the last year.

Keep receipts for important purchases, too. Get appraisals for antiques, or anything else of questionable value. It's nice to know how much your treasures are worth anyway, and information on the value is important in making a claim.

To carve a sirloin steak, remove the bone by cutting all the way around it. Then cut steak across the grain and at a slight angle.

$100,000 REWARD OFFER

Fluoridation was started in 1945 - promoters claim up to 50 years of research with fluorides.

To the first individual who can provide one copy of any controlled experiments with the U.S.P.H.S. recommended fluorides and water, at the U.S.P.H.S. recommended parts per million, that shows that poisonous fluorides are (as published as fact by promoters of fluoridation) safe, beneficial and will cause no future body harms.

A $20,000 REWARD HAS BEEN VALID FOR 14 YEARS, INCREASED TO $45,000, NOW $100,000
(Over 150,000 copies of this Reward Offer have been distributed to date.)

Doctor Calls Fluoridation Poison

"Fluoridation is one of the biggest international scandals that has ever been promoted in the name of a health scheme."

This is the opinion of Dr. Robert J. H. Mick of Laurel Spring, N. J. who was once an active promoter of fluoridation. Today, however, he is one of its strongest opponents.

"I was probably one of the first persons in the world to promote fluoridation, he said. "That was from 1944 through 1948, until I became interested in body chemistry."

In 1949 Dr. Mick was appointed an international representative of the American Academy of Nutrition. He conducted experiments with animals on food and fluorides. He conducted studies in Africa among natives on the relationship of fluoridated water and foods to dental decay. He has also conducted similar studies in the U. S. with children.

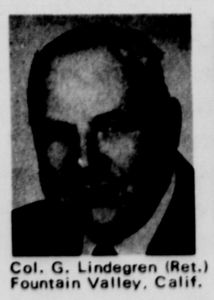

"As a result of experiments with animals, we learned that bones, teeth, kidneys, livers and spleens had accumulated up to 500 per cent more fluoride than controlled animals. Cripples were born to the third generation." Erie Morning News 6-8-64.

The following co-sponsor the $100,000 reward offer:

SCHOOL LEVY— WE NEED IT!

1. Raising the tax levy will give Sedalia School District No. 200: public kindergartens, will relieve overcrowded conditions at Smith-Cotton, and will provide for operation, maintenance, and staff of the Junior High School.
2. Passing of tax levy will strengthen the position of Sedalia School District No. 200, in regaining a AAA rating.
3. If the tax levy is passed on April 4, 1972, it will increase taxes from $2.97 to $3.62.
4. Sedalia presently has the lowest tax levy in all Missouri cities of 5,000 or more population.

More and more, fruit trees are being included in home landscapes. While they should not be scattered randomly on the lawn, careful placement can add beautiful flowers to the home grounds as well as fruit.

To reap the benefits of fruit trees, give them the care they deserve. That includes fertilization. Now, during early spring, is the time to fertilize your fruit plantings.

However, if you are putting in the planting this year, fertilization will not be necessary. Dig the planting hole large and fill it with good soil. Don't mix fertilizer in poor soil as a substitute for good soil. The substitute will be inadequate. Too much fertilizer will likely burn new roots as they develop.

During the first summer, water the trees so they can survive the normally hot, dry conditions. Do not overwater, however. In tight, clay soils where drainage may be poor, water could stand in the clay pocket formed by the hole. This could drown the tree. If you have these conditions, use a large hole and try planting the tree on a slight mound. Do not use constant light waterings. Watering once a week is adequate under average conditions.

After the first year, trees should be fertilized with a good garden fertilizer. A 12-12-12 or similar analysis will be adequate. Whatever analysis you choose, avoid those extremely high in nitrogen (the first number in the three number series).

Use about one pound of fertilizer for each one inch of tree trunk diameter as measured one foot above the ground. Apply the fertilizer in a band about three to five feet wide under the drip line or outer hang of the branches. If trees are small, apply uniformly from the trunk out to the edge of the branch spread.

If the fruit trees are in the lawn area, be careful not to make the fertilizer band too heavy, or grass may be burned. Heavy fertilization of lawns will make fertilization of fruit trees in the lawn area unnecessary. Do not use combination weed killer and fertilizer applied to lawns beneath fruit trees.

If you do not know whether or not to fertilize your fruit trees check the tip or terminal growth of the branches. How well the tree has grown can guide the amount of fertilizer necessary.

Tip or terminal growth should be bright green and vigorous. Growth of newly planted trees will be slower. By the time the tree reaches bearing, the terminal growth on standard trees should be from 6 to 15 inches per year.

The growth on most dwarf trees, as well as standard trees of pear, plum, and cherry, should be near the six-inch figure. Growth on standard trees of apple, peach and apricot should be close to 15 inches.

Too much nitrogen may make growth even longer. This can delay or reduce bearing and make the tree more susceptible to disease and insect attack. Adjust fertilization rates accordingly.

To get the most from your fruit trees, plan a regular spray program to control insects and diseases. The 1971 Home Fruit Spray Schedule, Horticulture Guide 6010 is now available from your University Extension Center, 4th & Lamine.

Six Vitamins

Unless added to rations, six vitamins especially important to swine may not be present in sufficient amounts.

This is an important point for hog producers who mix their own feed. The six vitamins are A, D, riboflavin, pantothenic acid, niacin, and B-12

There are a number of vitamin premixes commercially available to producers interested in onfarm mixing. They vary widely in vitamin levels and price may come in combination with protein supplement, antibiotics, and minerals.

In evaluating vitamin premixes, a producer should first determine if nutrient requirements are met. For example, 25 to 50-pound pigs should have levels of at least 1.6 million units of Vitamin A, 180,000 units of Vitamin D, 2,800 mg. of riboflavin, 16,400 mg. of niacin, 10,000 mg. of pantothenic acid, and 13.6 mg. of Vitamin B-12 per ton of complete feed.

Producers interested in evaluating vitamin premixes can get additional information from UMC Guide No. 235 entitled "Evaluating Premixes for Swine." A free copy is available from county Extension centers.

Insect Handbook

The Missouri Insect Control Recommendations handbook for 1972 is now ready for distribution.

The publication, prepared by UMC Extension entomologists, contains information about controlling insects on animals, farm crops, fruits and vegetables, around the house, in stored products, on the lawn and ornamentals.

Copies, available for $2 can be obtained by contacting the Extension office.

Trends Continue

"The consequence will be social strife of appalling severity" if the present population trend and rate of resource depletion continue.

That is the studied belief of Harold Breimyer, University of Missouri-Columbia Extension agricultural economist. He believes that if present trends continue, man will have to "sharply reduce" the amount of exhaustible resources used.

Breimeyer feels that in adjusting to reduced resource use "our personal outlook and social institutions" are likely to go through a period of chaos.

He points out that in the year 1600, world population was about a half billion. By about 1820 it had reached a billion. The world population figure is now 3½ billion.

"Perhaps," he says, "mankind can learn to live in crowded conditions. But if so, the learning process in the Western World has scarcely begun."

With regard to resource depletion, as much metal has been used worldwide in the last 30 years as was consumed in all previous time. The more accessible mineral deposits have already been mined. Shortages of some already exist or threaten.

As much petroleum was produced in the last 12 years as in all previous history. World coal production in the last 31 years equals all earlier production.

These and other resources are not unlimited, Breimyer reminds. He predicts that among fossil fuels, petroleum and natural gas will be the first to grow scarce and then disappear.

Tidal and geothermal power are of minor importance. Conversion of the sun's energy as a power source is not yet practical but may be some day. Much work remains before nuclear energy can be regarded as a major power source.

Breimyer says most proposals to anticipate future raw materials shortages call for precautionary restrictions, adopted and enforced by government.

In a Hospital

Turkey is now the chosen meat dish more often than just on holidays. In fact, if you are hospitalized in Missouri, you would likely be served turkey during your stay.

That is one of the findings in a survey of Missouri institutions made last year on use of turkey products.

Institutions surveyed were 10 colleges, 35 hospitals, and 54 nursing homes. The average number of times a year turkey or turkey products were served was 48 for hospitals, 24 for colleges, and 17 for nursing homes.

The range among individual institutions was from as little as twice a year — for holidays — to three times a week.

In reply to a survey question about how well turkey was received by clients, 87 per cent said good and 13 per cent said fair.

Turkey rates high as an acceptable food in mass feeding institutions such as hospitals, colleges and nursing homes. Dietitians consider it to be an excellent meat for the sick or elderly patient since it is easily digested and high in protein.

Because of the difficulty in obtaining quality labor and costs of services, institutions in the future will continue to use fewer whole turkeys and more further processed turkey products such as turkey rolls and parts.

Say Tobacco Farmers To Have Bright Future

WASHINGTON A(P) — A revision of cigarette-smoking estimates shows that tobacco farmers can count on steady per-capita puffing for an important part of their market through 1980—at least.

After three years of decline, the per-capita smoking rate seems to be picking up, says the Agriculture Department. In 1967 the average American, 18 years and older, smoked 214 packs. By 1970 the rate was down to 198 packs, according to the Economic Research Service.

Last year, Americans smoked 203 packs of cigarettes, on a per-capita basis, and the estimate for 1972 is about the same.

The ERS at one time last year projected a decline of around 50 packs of cigarettes per capita by 1980.

"However, assumptions based on recent data show consumption may fall only slightly from the current level or even increase slightly, depending on the health issue, prices and the makeup of the population," the ERS now says.

One of the reasons for the revised smoking estimate involves a statistical appraisal of age groups. According to the experts, the number of persons between 18 and 24 years of age grew the fastest during the 1962-71 decade.

"So, in the next nine or 10 years, the ERS says, "the biggest gain will probably he in the 25-34 age group. This group has a higher smoking rate than persons 18 to 24, and the prospective population shift could lift the over-all smoking rate."

Thus, looking ahead to 1980, the United States will have an "above average" number of people in the older category.

Commenting on the recent comeback of per-capita cigarette smoking, the ERS said:

"Though millions have quit smoking, new smokers in younger age groups have taken their place. Also, some of the initial impact of the publicity about cigarettes and health . . . may have worn off."

Regardless of the change in projection, the ERS said, the possibility of further declines in per-capita smoking still exists.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says a calf-feeding project in Korea, using U.S. feedlot techniques, has caused much local comment halfway through the experiment.

Some 264 calves were airlifted last October from Oklahoma for an eight-month pilot project to see if grain feeding is economically feasibile in Korea.

The experiment is sponsored by the Daehan Livestock and Feed Co., Seoul, and the U.S. Feed Grains Council. The calves are fed a ration which includes U.S. ground corn and dehydrated alfalfa pellets.

After four months, the Foreign Agricultural Service reported today, the calves averaged more than 630 pounds each, double their weight last October.

"Impressive to Korean observers are both the kind and the amount of feed," the FAS report said. "Feed is added to the bunkers four times daily, so the calves have feed in front of them at all times.

"The Korean practice, reflecting the traditional use of cattle as draft work animals, is to feed only at maintenance levels, plus a little extra when the animals are at workd."

The traditional Korean cattle feed is wheat bran and rice straw cooked into a mash, the FAS said.

Missouri Records Ten Traffic Deaths

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Missouri recorded at least 10 deaths in traffic accidents over the Easter Holiday weekend.

The victims Sunday included:

Emily Sue Hilke, 18, of Jefferson City, in a three-car collision on U. S. 50 in Franklin County.

Terry Rosenbalm, 53, and Ervin Schmidt, 19, both of Eldon, died in a five-car pile-up on U. S. 54 a few miles southwest of Eldon early Sunday.

Mrs. Sandra Tate, 23, Joplin, Mo., was killed in a one-car accident on Interstate 44 four miles east of Carthage Sunday.

William Vandergrift, 23, Hartville, Mo., was injured fatally in a one-car mishap north of Mansfield.

Killed Saturday:

Richard Wiercinski, 25, Kansas City, in a one-car accident in Kansas City. He died in a hospital Sunday.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mae Ragan, 45, Sibley, Mo., in a two-car crash in Jackson County.

Daniel Rose, 20, Bland, Mo., when his car ran off Missouri 28 and struck a tree west of Belle.

Myron Wilks, 60, Verona, Mo., in a car-train accident four miles east of Monett.

Lee Lewis, 55, St. Louis, was killed in a two-car crash a mile south of St. Charles Friday night.

Special Events for Arbor Day

Arbor Day, a special day set aside for planting trees, is 100 years old this year. Special centennial observances are being planned in many areas. National theme of the centennial observance is, "Try to Say Trees Without Smiling."

The first Arbor Day was conceived by Julius Sterling Morton. He was born in New York, moved to Michigan, and finally settled in Nebraska.

His new home was 160 acres of treeless prairie. Morton, recalling the protection forests had given the land in his former homes, began planting trees and shrubs to help prevent erosion of his valuable soil.

He tried to convince other farmers to use trees as windbreaks. Few followed his advice. As a journalist he continued to promote the virtues of trees. In 1872 he appeared before the Nebraska Board of Agriculture to convince them to proclaim the world's first Arbor Day.

Despite some skepticism, the Board approved the plan and authorized prizes for the most trees planted on April 10, 1872. Over one million trees were planted.

Arbor Day is recognized in all 50 states, but on different dates because of the variation in suitable tree planting seasons. A move is currently under way to establish a day in late April for annual National Arbor Day observance.

In Missouri, Arbor Day was first observed in 1886. It is traditionally celebrated the first Friday after the first Tuesday in April. Using that calculation, it will be celebrated Apr. 7 this year. This year in some metropolitan areas of Missouri, local groups, in cooperation with the Forestry Division of the Department of Conservation, are making about 70,000 tree seedlings available to fourth grade students for planting on Arbor Day.

Through the years Arbor Days have had varying popularity. Present interest in conservation of trees makes Arbor Day more meaningful than it has beenn for many years. The great part trees play in making our environment more beautiful and in producing the raw material for so many products we use daily cannot be overlooked.

Trees properly selected, placed, and planted can add more in livability to our homes and surroundings than any other single landscape feature. They are everchanging and never become tiresome. To some, leaves are a nuisance. But, leaves are an excellent source of compost that helps produce better plants in the vegetable or flower garden.

Arbor Day may be used to promote reforestation, community beautification, or it may be a private observance such as planting a tree in your own yard.

Make sure the tree you plant for Arbor Day gets a good start so it will survive to glorify future Arbor Days. Dig the planting hole at least a foot wider and six inches deeper than the root system to be planted. Place the topsoil in a separate pile when the hole is dug so it can be used around the roots when the tree is planted.

Mix peatmoss or leafmold with the topsoil to provide better growing conditions for plant roots. Use the subsoil to fill remaining space in the top of the hole.

More information on proper tree planting is available in "Planting Trees and Shrubs," Ground for Gardening Guide 6850. A copy is free from county Extension centers throughout the sate.

Not everyone will be able to plant trees on Arbor Day. Each of us, however, should resolve not to let the spring pass without planting, or helping someone plant a tree.

Six Are Killed In Kansas Wrecks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents claimed the lives of at least six persons in Kansas over the weekend. Five of the deaths occurred Easter Sunday.

Barbara K. Dare, 21, Drexel, Mo., was killed in a three-car smashup on U.S. 69 about 9-miles north of Pleasanton, Kan. Eight others were injured, two seriously. The two in serious condition at Fort Scott Hospital were Patricia S. Dare, 18, of Drexel, Mo., and Robert E. Hayden, 22, of Girard, Kan.

Charles H. Ringer, 85, Quinter, his daughters, Edna M. Ringer, 62, and Mrs. Nettie C. Wheeler, 57, both of Hutchinson, were killed when their car and a Union Pacific freight train collided on the west edge of Quinter Sunday.

Archie Christopher, 49, Ulysses, Kan., died in a one-car accident on Kansas 25 about eight miles south of Ulysses Sunday.

Pvt. John Johnson, 24, Ft. Leavenworth, Kan., was injured fatally Friday night in a three-car crash in Leavenworth.

Blaze Damages Popular Spot

PAOLA, Kan. (AP) — Fire has heavily damaged a mecca for eastern Kansas youths.

Fire Chief Bob Harris estimated the blaze caused a loss of $30,000 to $40,000 to the Pla-Mart Ballroom Saturday in Paola.

Harris said the fire appeared to have started near a gas heater and beer cooler. It spread rapidly through the concrete block and frame building.

WE OWE IT TO THE CHILDREN OF SEDALIA

When you buy a house or rent one, you expect to pay for the furnishings, the lights and gas to make it liveable. Why should anyone expect that once a school is built, that it won't cost money to furnish it, pay for the utilities and staff it with teachers. When you buy a car the initial cost covers just that. You expect to pay for gas, insurance and repairs. You don't buy a car to just sit in your driveway or on the street in front of your residence. This is what the school levy is for; to pay the operating expense, the salaries of the teachers, the cost of custodial help to keep it clean, the maintenance men to make sure the heating system is in operating condition, the cafeteria personnel to serve appetizing meals. All of these things and many more, are things that must be paid for, and this is what the increase in the school levy is for — operating expenses.

When you went to school, who paid the cost — your parents, your grandparents, the people next door or down the street — they all paid a little so that you could get your education. Don't you owe that much to the children of Sedalia? It is such a little and it helps so many! Let's equip our children and your neighbor's children to compete in this fast changing world. The better their foundation, the better they will be able to face the problems of this day and age. Sure it will cost money but such a little to do so much good.

My children are out of school but I still feel that I have a moral obligation to help the children that are in school now and the children that will be in school. How can you vote against funds to staff kindergartens?

Who is financing the ads which are speaking against this levy? Why don't they list the names of the persons or individual who is paying for these sniping ads? Why do they get other people to sign for the ads when they won't admit who is actually paying for them? Could it be one or several people who have so much property that they feel they will have to pay a larger amount of taxes? My heart bleeds for them. I'm proud of Sedalia. I think it's a wonderful place to live. Let's keep it that way. Let's continue to build for the future!

Louis Harris Survey

Poor Record For John Lindsay

By LOUIS HARRIS

Mayor John Lindsay of New York, facing his acid test in Wisconsin Tuesday, has not been faring well along the campaign trail. A main reason, according to 48 per cent of the electorate, is that "he became a Democrat less out of conviction and more to get the chance to run for President." Also hurting Lindsay is the fact that a majority, by 54-21 per cent, have not believed "he has the experience to qualify him for the presidency."

As one consequence of these substantial doubts about him, a Harris Survey taken in early March showed the New York Mayor trailing President Nixon in a trial heat by a massive 58-22 per cent, with Gov. George Wallace as a third-party nominee at 13 per cent. In a two-way contest, Nixon led Lindsay by 64-26 per cent.

In a special series of questions designed to measure the impact Lindsay has been making in his bid for the Democratic nomination, the results show that the New York Mayor has evoked a good deal of ambivalence:

—By 58-18 per cent, with 24 per cent not sure, the public does agree that Lindsay is "an exciting, attractive public personality." However, by 45-24 per cent, the voters also feel that he "is more good looks and glamour than a sound man to run the country." Lindsay has charisma, but not necessarily of the kind to enhance confidence that he can take over the reins of the White House.

—By 50-15 per cent, half the public agrees that Mayor Lindsay "is not afraid to speak out, even when it is unpopular to do so." Some of the edge is taken off this admiration, however, by the 34-27 per cent who feel he is "too liberal on his stands," although a high 39 per cent just are not sure about his. On balance, Lindsay's boldness in speaking out on controversial issues appears to have helped him more than it has hurt him with the voters.

—By 48-23 per cent, Americans agree with the statement that "as Mayor of New York City, he hasn't done so bad in an impossible job." This sympathetic reading, however, is counterbalanced by those who also believe, 40-27 per cent, that "he has a poor record as Mayor of New York." The point is, of course, that people can sympathize with the task facing any Mayor of New York, but that is not the same as believing John Lindsay has been an outstanding chief executive of the country's biggest city.

The most serious count against the New Yorker probably is the feeling that he was opportunistic in making his switch from the Republican to Democratic parties last summer. This could hurt him among both Republicans and Democrats who are free to vote in the primary of their choice in Wisconsin. Coupled with the feeling that he has geared his media campaign to personality, the Lindsay candidacy has been slow to catch hold as a serious Presidential undertaking.

Also, his previous record in the Congress has somehow not been communicated to the voters, and the notion that New York City is a favorable proving ground for Lindsay as a future President has not been borne out.

A cross section of 1,365 voters was asked between Feb. 28 and March 7 these questions on their preference for President: "Suppose in 1972 for President it were between Richard Nixon for the Republicans, Mayor John Lindsay for the Democrats, and Gov. George Wallace as an independent, whom would you be for?" and "If you had to say, would you lean toward Nixon the Republican, Lindsay the Democrat, or Wallace the independent?"

Nixon-Lindsay-Wallace Trend

	Nixon %	Lindsay %	Wallace %	Not Sure %
March, 1972	58	22	13	7
September, 1971	50	31	11	8
August	48	33	13	6
February	44	36	13	7
November, 1970	45	37	12	6
September	47	36	10	7
April	48	36	11	5

The current 36-point lead President Nixon holds over Mayor Lindsay is by far the biggest since the Harris Survey began testing the two men in trial heats back in 1970. To a degree, the Nixon strength was a reflection of his televised trip to China, but some of the difference must be attributed to the failure of the New York Mayor's campaign to connect with the voters. His standing has dropped steadily since he declared for the White House.

Most damaging to Lindsay's hopes is the fact that he runs weakest in his home area, the Northeast section of the country. President Nixon leads him there by an even more substantial 64-22 per cent margin, with George Wallace at a low 5 per cent. This poor showing in his home territory is backed up by the fact that voters in that section of the country agree with the statement, by 55-26 per cent, that "he has a poor record as Mayor of New York," by 58-28 per cent that "he is more good looks and glamour than a sound man to run the country," and, by 57-11 per cent, that "he became a Democrat less out of conviction, more to get a chance to run for President."

All of these percentages on the negative side are higher in the East than in any other part of the country. This would indicate that if he were to eventually become the Democratic candidate, he would probably have a hard time carrying his home city or state of New York. What is more, this fact could hurt his chance of being named to the Vice Presidential spot on the Democratic ticket, were he to drop out of contention in favor of some other candidate.

Deadline Decision Blasted

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The 60-day deadline set last week by Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe for a decision on the site of a new St. Louis area airport is "unwarranted, unfair and unjustifiable," The St. Louis Globe-Democrat said in an editorial Monday.

"No need whatever exists for applying the spur of immediate urgency for decision on another airport," the newspaper said.

"The presumptuous 60-day deadline should be recalled by Secretary Volpe and more time allowed for resolution of this complex issue on the basis of clear facts and tenable projections—not on arguments of emotion or political intransigency," the Globe-Democrat said.

Volpe told officials in Illinois and Missouri last week that they must decide if the airport should be located in Illinois or Missouri. If no agreement is reached within 60 days, the Federal Aviation Administration will be directed to act on a pending application for the proposed Columbia-Waterloo, Ill., site, Volpe told the officials in a letter.

The Globe-Democrat said the deadline "sounds like a threat that Washington is going to hurl its influence for the Illinois site." The newspaper said that would be "a grave mistake" and an injustice to the people of Missouri and the St. Louis area "who furnish 88 per cent of airline users."

The newspaper said St. Louis Mayor A. J. Cervantes, one of the principal advocates of the Illinois site, has "virtually ignored" a poll of airport users, which indicated they prefer expansion of the present airport and a Missouri location for a second major airport. The poll was conducted by the Metropolitan St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Straw Barricades Fight Oil Slick

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — Straw barricades across the South Fork River and floating pumps appeared Sunday night to be holding the flow of oil that had leaked into the water last week.

The pumps, brought in by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Kansas City, were pumping the effluent into newly constructed lagoons.

"They are removing quite a bit of it," said Eugene Baldwin, a conservation agent. "Any amount of the oil that is removed will relieve the situation downstream."

The oil leak originated at the Kaiser Refractories just north of Mexico last week and reportedly spread 20 miles downstream, killing thousands of fish.

Baldwin said crews from Kaiser completed six barricades and the skimming operation began Saturday afternoon and went on through the night and continued all day Sunday.

The South Fork flows northward past Mexico and joins the Middle Fork and North Fork to form the Salt River at the Mark Twain State Park in Monroe County.

Broilers Increase Over 1971 Figure

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — Missouri hatcheries set 440,000 eggs for broilers during the week ended March 25, about the same as the week before and 8 per cent more than the same week last year.

The Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service says 499,000 chicks were placed for broilers, about the same for a similar in 1971 and 8 per cent less than the preceding week.

The 488,000 poults hatched during the week was 2 per cent less than the previous week and 1 per cent less than the same week last year.

The total poults was 753,000, the same as the week before and 14 per cent less than the comparable week in 1971.

Should Politicians Determine 'Fairness' of Media?

WASHINGTON — Asking politicians to judge the "fairness" of the press is like making Charles Manson chaplain of a girls' school or Clifford Irving treasurer of the United States.

Rowan

The press is what keeps public officials reasonably honest in this country. What is said on television, or in the news columns, about a given official can mean political life or death. Obviously, then, one man's "fairness" is another man's poison.

Still, the politicians never abandon the dream that somehow they can frighten or flamfloozle the American people into giving politicians the right to decide when the press has or has not been "fair."

The Federal Communications Commission got unprecedented "second-guess" rights in 1949 when a fledgling television industry was saddled with a "fairness doctrine." Now the FCC is holding hearings here to determine whether the "fairness" rules ought to be tightened, relaxed or dropped altogether.

Television had this measure of government control foisted on it because, as the politicians like to say, "it is a potent influence on the minds of millions of Americans." Well, that is the best reason I know for freeing TV of the bureaucratic nonsense of political appointees deciding when it has been fair.

All one need do is look at the ITT mess to see how futile it is to try to computerize a formula to determine fairness.

Mrs. Dita Beard, the ailing ITT lobbyist, testified from her hospital bed that she did not write all of the memorandum published by columnist Jack Anderson linking settlement of an anti-trust suit against ITT to that conglomerate's decision to contribute heavily to the financing of the Republican convention.

But the nation's newspapers gave major emphasis to Mrs. Beard's surprise testimony that someone from the White House called ITT to inquire about a $600,000 contribution, at least some of it to finance President Nixon's campaign for re-election.

Was it "fair" of the press to dwell on this alleged call rather than the attempt to discredit the memo?

Given the power to judge, Sen. Roman Hruska, the Nebraska Republican, would surely say "unfair." He argues that the Anderson memo has been totally discredited and that the Senate hearings it provoked ought to end immediately. As he sees it, the press is just publicizing "a political circus."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, the Massachusetts Democrat, would say in this instance that the press was "fair and responsible." He thinks that, rather than justify closing the hearings, Mrs. Beard's testimony only added to their urgency.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania argues that the hearings are "an exercise of irrelevance, total irrelevance."

Is it "fair" of newspapers and TV stations to keep devoting prime attention to an "irrelevance?"

News reporters and executives figure that with all the document shredding, late disclaimers, sudden discoveries of witnesses, unexpected assertions of White House calls, the whole business becomes more "relevant" every day.

In this case the Democrats will find the press eminently fair because the Republican ox is being gored.

Wherever a politician is being stung by press revelations, you can bet he will try to blame the newsman. Mrs. Beard collapsed with a heart seizure during questioning that took place because Republican senators said they would not attend further hearings until she had her say. After her collapse, her lawyer, David W. Fleming, reached for public sympathy with the comment that this "sick and distraught woman" has been driven almost to death by "the almost untrammeled power of Jack Anderson, an arrogant and brazen journalist and his pathetic mud-raking investigator Brit Hume."

The ITT case shows that when politicians start jockeying for advantage they can't agree on the color of the sky, but each one knows an unfair, too-powerful journalist: one who has just hurt him.

Still, some idealists argue that the government must force on television more "standards...rules, public accountability." Some argue for greater freedom of the general public to go on television and sound off. CBS vice president Richard W. Jencks noted accurately that this would be to "exalt free speech at the expense of free press."

Television, like the written media, does have a responsibility to air all sides of controversy. The public does have a greater claim on TV than on newspapers and magazines because the airwaves are limited and are the property of all the people.

But the people are sure to be shafted if they swallow the notion that the only way to get "fairness" is to have politicians decree it.

The ITT affair ought to be proof enough that politicians are blinded by an insatiable thirst for survival, and "fairness" for them is one-dimensional. Government ought never be the judge of the "fairness" of TV or any other part of the press.

Wisconsin Prefers Humphrey

By BRUCE BIOSSAT

NEA News Analyst

MILWAUKEE (NEA) — The top manager for one of the lesser candidates in Wisconsin's overcrowded presidential primary told me:

"The only firm commitments we are finding in our telephone canvassing are for Hubert Humphrey."

Biossat

That little message is heard again and again in this state, from canvassers, from travelers to the north, in editors' offices, among key politicians.

Many, many Wisconsin voters voice polite interest in some other candidate, but then add: "Of course, Hubert is a personal friend."

If this deep and evidently quite broad attachment holds up on voting day, April 4, then the man from neighboring Minnesota may be about to win the first major presidential primary of his lifetime.

Indeed, he conceivably could capture most of the state's nine congressional districts and by that fact the overwhelming majority of Wisconsin's 67 delegates to the national convention at Miami Beach.

By now, naturally, every political appraiser descending upon this heralded primary state is writing Humphrey. The interesting thing is how and why he got there.

A good many politicians and observers who think they know Wisconsin say Humphrey always had the winning potential here. Says one:

"When he campaigns in this state, he just activates what is his."

By this reasoning, the lead long held by the now struggling Sen. Edmund Muskie was always illusory, constructed in a vacuum which would begin to disappear the moment Humphrey moved.

If this view is the correct one, then Muskie's faltering strides before and after his Florida primary debacle are simply an added contribution.

Such an interpretation would seem to suggest gross misjudgment of Humphrey, in and beyond this state, by Muskie's managers.

Had they read well Humphrey's evident residual strength here, they might never have talked so airily of victory. Now Muskie is having to mutter belatedly that he will surely finish behind neighbor Humphrey and might even land third behind neighbor George McGovern, his hard competitor from South Dakota.

But maybe everybody had been misjudging Humphrey's drive for a second presidential nomination. He thinks he was cheated of the White House in 1968 by unhappy circumstances (the war and Lyndon Johnson) which aren't present today. He thinks: "This is my time."

First he felt he might win by entering just the late primaries like California and New York. Next he decided he daren't wait, that Muskie might wrap it up quickly if he did. So he picked some early spots.

His really critical decision, the true gauge on his effort, was the one to lay it on heavy in Florida and Wisconsin. He thought he might still lose out to early Muskie momentum unless he scored in these.

He did just well enough in Florida to be encouraged. Muskie's flop there was a bonus. And Wisconsin may prove Hubert's real gold mine.

Yet there is some peril in Humphrey's course. Though a great personal campaigner, he is a shockingly demogogic over-promiser. Moreover, polls these days place him well behind President Nixon and show him disapproved by youth and doubted by the broad electorate.

This suggests his rush may soon encounter heavy resistance. But in friendly Wisconsin? Probably not. Still, there is that wide no-man's-land of undecided voters unconquered by Humphrey and open to the rival appeals of Muskie and McGovern.

Propose Park Idea For Bicentennial

The best way the nation could celebrate its 200th anniversary in 1976 — next to solving all its problems and correcting its every shortcoming, of course — would probably be to leave something permanent for future generations to enjoy.

Not fancy words to be read. Not some grand monument to be looked at. But something that could be USED by people and which would enhance their daily lives.

The American Revolution Bicentennial Commission is studying an idea that seems to fit this specification: a proposed network of Bicentennial Parks, one in every state to serve as the focal point of that state's celebration of the Bicentennial and thereafter to remain as a permanent recreational facility.

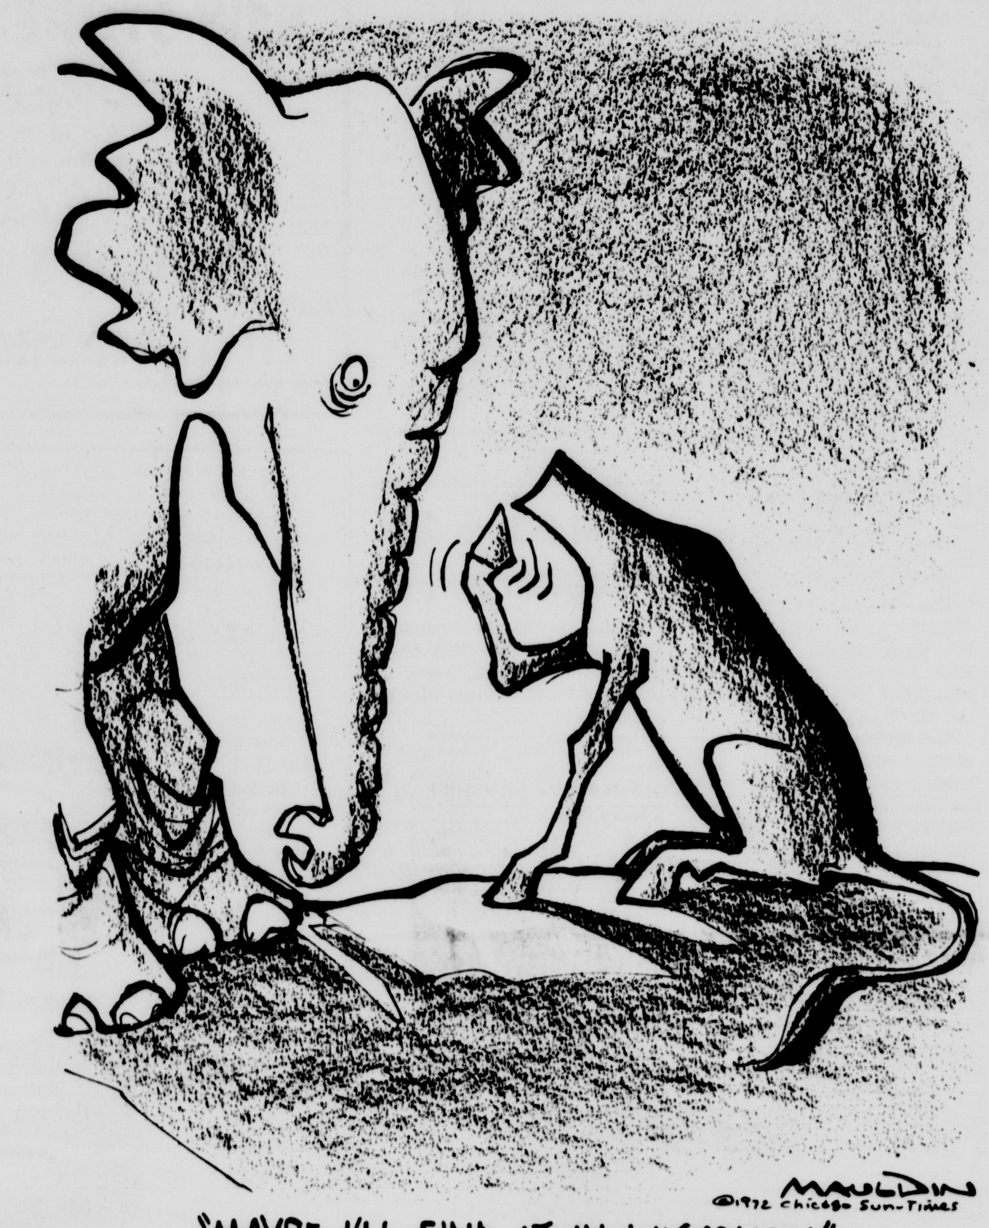

The parks would vary in size from 100 to 500 acres and be built on federal surplus land or otherwise donated land. Design and construction of the parks would be funded by Congress; the states would maintain and operate them.

It is estimated the parks would cost from $15 million to $25 million each, with the total program running to $1.5 billion — cheap for a system of parks of such wide scope and such potential value.

The main feature of each park would be a permanent pavilion, to be used for exhibits, entertainment and public events during the bicentennial observance.

But except for this one feature in common, each park would be different. Each state would select its own architects and the commission would impose no standards or restrictions. Any state could, in fact, choose not to participate in the program.

Fifty Bicentennial Parks. Let's talk it up.

'Summit' Meet Held By Corporate Giants

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Business barons from around the world gathered last month in Versailles, France, to discuss policies that could shake the economies of more than 100 countries.

They represented multi-national, multibillion-dollar conglomerates, which have grown into corporate nations with more wealth and power than most governments.

Already, the 300 largest corporations produce one-sixth of the earth's total industrial output. They are devouring smaller corporations with such an appetite that, by the end of the century, they will control one-half the industrial production.

Our investigation of International Telephone and Telegraph has provided a glimpse into the operations of a typical corporate power. Like Britain, ITT has built an empire upon which the sun never sets. The great conglomerate has acquired more than 100 corporations in 67 foreign countries. It operates its own worldwide foreign policy unit, foreign intelligence machinery, counterintelligence apparatus, communications network, classification system and airliner fleet.

ITT's top executives have demonstrated an astonishing ability to deal with governments at the highest levels. Their deliberations are usually held in the backrooms, with the doors closed and the public shut out.

Other corporate powers have developed a similar influence over the economic and foreign policies of various governments. Just as ITT was able to plot against President Salvadore Allende in Chile, the great oil companies in the past have manipulated such governments as Bolivia, Ecuador, Indonesia, Iran, Libya, Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf lands.

The National Petroleum Council, a quasi-official group of oil magnates, has served as the industry's State Department, with excellent contacts throughout the U.S. Foreign Service.

Representatives from Mobil, Standard Oil of New Jersey and Standard Oil of California have access to the inner offices of the State Department. In some Middle Eastern countries, the oil men have more clout than do our diplomats.

In some ways, the Versailles conference last month had the appearance of a corporate United Nations meeting. All the big conglomerates were represented. General Motors, the superconglomerate, sent a delegation. So did Ford and Fiat.

Phillips Petroleum and Standard Oil were represented, as were Armco Steel, Caterpillar Tractor, Allied Chemical and Imperial Chemical.

Out of the sessions came the clear impression that these conglomerates put their corporate interests ahead of their national interests. There was evidence, too, of an arrogance of power.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, happily, has decided to throw more light upon this shadowy world of the international conglomerates.

An aerosol spray designed to keep food from sticking to skillets has been blamed for the recent deaths of 24 young thrill-seekers who inhaled it for a "high."

Called PAM, the spray is 97 per cent freon, a compressed propellant which can cause an anguished death when inhaled. Three per cent of the spray is a fatty vegetable product called lecithin.

The harmless lecithin makes PAM preferable to "sniffers" over hair sprays, which contain cloying lacquers. So serious is the new menace that in some high schools, PAM is replacing marijuana as the drug of choice.

"PAM doesn't stick their noses together like hair spray," one Food and Drug Administration official explained to us. He confirmed that 24 deaths from PAM had been reported in recent months.

At the New York headquarters of PAM's makers, American Home Products, a spokesman said the firm was aware of the problem and was cooperating with FDA to try to solve it.

Pfizer, Inc., one of the nation's largest pharmaceutical firms, has been secretly pressuring its employes to lobby against two important consumer bills. The company has warned them, however, not to do it on Pfizer stationery.

In an internal memo, Pfizer Laboratories Vice President J. A. Vevoda urges workers to write letters to Congress against bills that would set up a consumer protection agency and put more teeth in the Federal Trade Commission.

"To be of maximum impact, your letter should not be sent on Pfizer letterhead," says Vevoda slyly. "Pfizer has already expressed its opposition to these bills."

So that Pfizer can check on its goody two-shoes, the letter adds: "It would be very much appreciated if you would furnish a blind copy of any such letters" to Pfizer's lawyers.

Pfizer has good reason to fight the bills which, if they become law, might stop Pfizer from its monopoly pricing practices. In the case of the life-saving drug tetracycline, for example, Pfizer got a criminal indictment for antitrust activities. A conviction was reversed by the Supreme Court.

More recently, Pfizer has granted discounts to favored hospitals on drugs. This is accomplished by providing bonus extra deliveries.

Questioned about reports that Pfizer had been giving bonus extras on the tranquilizer Atarax, a Pfizer spokesman said: "We have a policy against free goods. There have been occasions when salesmen don't follow the policy."

Jim: "It is easy to learn about finesses. It is a lot harder to learn when not to finesse and which finesse, if any, to take when you have a choice."

Oswald: "South made no effort to get to seven, even though North showed both missing aces. North's bidding had limited his strength, and South knew that at best seven would be on a finesse."

Jim: "Actually it was. If South could pick up the queen of spades he could discard one of dummy's diamonds on the long spades and make a grand slam."

Oswald: "When South looked at dummy he was glad he had settled for six. He also noted that six was in danger after the diamond opening. He had a choice of finesses in the black suits."

Jim: "He also had a better play that would risk a two-trick set. He tried the better play and made seven."

Oswald: "The play was to draw trumps and then cash the ace and king of spades. There was a 35 per cent chance to drop the queen. If it didn't drop South could still try the club finesse but it did drop and South made all the tricks."

♥♣CARD Sense♠♦

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
1 ♥	Pass	Pass	2 ♠
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:

♠ A K 6 5 4 ♥ A 2 ♦ J ♣ A K 6 5 4

What do you do now?

A—Just bid four spades. Your partner could not bid over one heart and is not showing much strength now.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding three spades, your partner has bid four spades over your two spades. What do you do now?

Claims Busing Freeze Might Speed Progress

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top civil-rights enforcer says President Nixon's proposed freeze on court-ordered busing for school desegregation may bring public attention to progress in other areas.

J. Stanley Pottinger, director of the U.S. Office for Civil Rights, said the emotional busing issue has obscured advances in equal rights for women and Spanish-speaking minorities and equal employment by government contractors.

"Unfortunately, there is a perception on the part of a substantial part of the public that all that this office does . . . is engage in busing plans," he said.

"That's just wholly incorrect. A great many developments in civil rights have occurred that are being implemented with excitement and with vigor and with results that are not addressed very much in the press."

In a wide-ranging interview, Pottinger made his first public comments on the White House antibusing legislation sent to Congress more than two weeks ago.

The proposed busing moratorium, he said, "will redefine remedies in such a way that the limits on busing will be clear. They will not be total but they will be clear."

"I think there is a lot that can be done and will be done short of busing," he said.

Although Pottinger said equal employment opportunity is "one of the important thrusts" of the Nixon administration, he declined to list civil-rights priorities.

"Our effort is to try to make sure we have a balanced approach," he said. "I think that's the way it should be, that the priorities ought not only to exist in enforcement on an equal basis or a balanced way, but that there ought to be more attention on the part of Congress and the public to the other areas."

Asked what action has been taken against 10 Southern states found to be operating segregated college systems earlier, Pottinger said "the problem is not knowing in the government or in the states themselves what it is that constitutes compliance."

Colleges are distinct from grade schools in several respects, he said, among them the lack of compulsory attendance and school-attendance zones. A successful integration effort "must depend upon constituting programs and faculty so that they will attract a mix of students, not a program that will compel a mix of students," he said.

In the area of women's rights, Pottinger said colleges and universities are using the academic-freedom issue as a "red herring" to deny federal investigators access to personnel files in job-discrimination cases.

Selling Ordinance Is Not Enforced

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City has failed to enforce a 15-year-old city ordinance prohibiting sale of baby chicks, ducks and rabbits as Easter pets, James E. Wade, president of the Missouri Society for the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals, said Sunday.

He said the SPCA received three baby chicks that were unwanted, a green poult that died after being sprayed with green house paint and a purple rooster that died of mishandling.

"Experience has shown repeatedly that baby chicks sold in the city for playthings or for decorative purposes seldom survive the mishandling and unnatural conditions to which they are subjected," Wade said.

MAP TO CURB NOISE

LONDON (AP) — Four thousand students are cooperating to draw up a "noise map" of Britain by taking decibel meter readings indoors and outdoors, in residential and public places and especially at busy traffic intersections. The aim is to establish "quiet zones" where noise above a statutory level could be banned.

ATTENTION

Mr. & Mrs. Concerned Taxpayer

Because we feel so strongly about the confusion that has been presented in the newspaper ads and over the radio recently suggesting that the school levy is not needed we felt compelled to try to clear up a few points.

Most important is the fact that there is a difference between a school bond election and a school levy election.

A school bond is voted on when the school board presents, to the taxpayers, for a vote a tax increase to build a building. It is illegal to present operating expenses on the same ballot with a vote for a building.

The school levy is presented to the voters each year by the board and is based on how much it will take to operate the schools the way the board feels necessary for the next year, taking into consideration all local, state and federal funds. It has been suggested that this whole 65¢ will be spent on operating the Junior High School. This is not true.

Not only will this staff and operate the Junior High but it will give us kindergartens in the elementary schools and also additional teachers at Smith Cotton to reduce class size.

The cost for all this is

$187,980.00 for Junior High staff and operation
$76,716.00 for Smith Cotton to reduce class size
$66,800.00 for Kindergartens
this is a total $331,496.00

To secure this much money would really take a levy increase of 81¢ but because we have reached the state average for school levies we are eligible for additional state funds of $66,360.00 which leaves us with an increase of only 65¢ but with services worth 81¢.

The levy has not been increased since 1959 and who isn't spending a lot more for everything they do and buy now then we did in 1959. How can we imagine a school board could operate a quality school system without a raise in the levy.

Those opposed to this levy keep saying they weren't told. We say they should have known. No one builds a new building and expands the services he offers without additional cost. We've built the new Junior High building now let's staff and operate it right, expand our elementary schools to include kindergartens and reduce the class size at Smith Cotton. Let's not cheat our children out of good schools. Remember they are the ones affected but they have no vote. They are looking to us to vote yes for them. Don't make the children suffer.

We here in Sedalia School District #200 will have only as good a school system as we are willing to pay for. Everything costs money.

Won't you please be as concerned as we are for the welfare of our children and

VOTE YES
FOR THE SCHOOL LEVY

Favell Sits Dazed

Philadelphia Flyers' goalie Doug Favell sits dazed after Gary Meehan of the Buffalo Sabres got a shot past him with four seconds left to play that guided the Sabres past Philadelphia, 3-2, Sunday night. More importantly, the Flyers' loss, coupled with the Pittsburgh Penguins' victory over St. Louis dropped Philadelphia from the Stanley Cup playoffs. (UPI)

Pittsburgh Gains Berth in Playoffs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Pittsburgh Penguins are in the National Hockey League Stanley Cup playoffs thanks to a fortuitous set of circumstances.

The Penguins landed fourth place in the West, the last playoff spot open, by defeating St. Louis 6-2 Sunday night in the windup of the regular NHL season.

But consider: to stay alive they had to least tie Philadelphia Saturday night. This they did at 4-4 on Greg Polis' goal with 47 seconds left to play.

Then, on Sunday, Buffalo had to beat Philadelphia to keep Pittsburgh' hopes alive while the Penguins defeated the Blues. The Sabres, down 2-0, rallied to trip Philadelphia 3-2 on Gerry Meehan's 30-foot goal with just four seconds to play.

The Penguins' victory over the Blues gave them an identical season mark of 26-38-14 and a tie with Philadelphia. The playoff spot went to the Penguins because they beat the Flyers in their season series 3-2-1.

So now the Penguins go against the Chicago Black Hawks at Chicago in the opening of the Stanley Cup playoffs Wednesday night with a full four-game sschedule. In the other games, Toronto is at Boston, Montreal at New York and St. Louis at Minnesota.

Bobby Hull scored twice to reach the 50-goal mark for the fifth time in his career as the Black Hawks closed out their regular season by whipping Detroit 6-1.

Montreal beat New York 6-5 as the Rangers' Vic Hadfield became only the sixth player in NHL history to tally 50 goals in one season.

Boston downed Toronto 6-4 and Vancouver overcame Minnesota 4-1 in Sunday's other games. Goals by Terry O'Reilly and Fred Stanfield early in the third period broke a 3-3 tie and won for the Bruins over the Leafs.

Minnesota averted a shutout when Lou Nanne beat the Canucks' rookie goalie Ed Dyck early in the last period.

Cards' Reps Say. . .

'They are Trying To Break MLPA'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Player representatives for the St. Louis Cardinals said Sunday that "money is not the issue" in the strike which has silenced major league training camps.

Shortstop Dal Maxvill, the Cardinals' representative, and alternate Joe Torre said in St. Petersburg that club owners are "trying to break the association (Major League Players Association)."

Commenting on the money issue, Maxvill noted there is $817,000 in the players pension fund which could be applied to the 17 per cent pension increase the players are seeking. Using those funds, each club would have to contribute $11,000 to offset the total amount sought by the players.

Maxvill and Torre said the owners agree "this is our money," but both sides have to approve the expenditure. "We should be able to use it then," Maxvill said. Maxvill said the $817,000 surplus comes from interest on the pension fund, players who fail to get a minimum of four years in the pension plan and money contributed for disability payments.

Meanwhile, in St. Louis, Cardinal officials said that at least 500 persons connected directly with Busch Stadium will be out of work if the strike continues into opening day Friday.

Cardinal Business Manager Joseph V. McShane estimated payrolls within the park alone are about $3,500 a day.

Norman Probstein, operator of the Bel Air East and Bel Air West motels in St. Louis, said Sunday the downtown area "will be a disaster area" if the Cardinals don't play baseball this season.

The Cardinals "are worth six Arches" to the downtown area and "literally millions of dollars would be lost if no baseball is played this year," Probstein said.

Softball Meeting Is Set Thursday

There will be a meeting of all interested Sedalia softball managers and coaches, Thursday, in the Sedalia Park Board office in Liberty Park at 7:30 p.m.

Dr. Robert Linsenbardt, organizer of the meeting, said that there were two reasons for calling the meeting. The first is the scheduling of games this summer at Housel Park. The other will be to search out the possibility of organizing an industrial softball league.

Drivers Qualify

RECKLINGHOUSEN, Germany (AP) — Gilbert Martens of Belgium, Willie Rode of West Germany and Giuseppe Guzzinati of Italy qualified Sunday for harness racing's world driving championship to be held later this month in the United States and Canada under sponsorship of the Harness Tracks of America.

Pulls Tennis Upset

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Jose Higueras, a 19-year-old rising Spanish tennis star, upset first-seeded Eugenio Castigliano of Italy 4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 7-5 Sunday and won the Naples International Tournament.

Celtics, New York Win

Lakers Gain 3-0 Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers are sitting pretty, the Boston Celtics are in a comfortable position and the New York Knicks and Baltimore Bullets are up to their old painful posture—too close for comfort.

That's the National Basketball Association playoff picture today.

Los Angeles defeated the Chicago Bulls 108-101 Sunday to take a commanding 3-0 lead in their best-of-seven Western Conference semifinals.

The Boston Celtics took a 2-1 lead in their Eastern semifinals by beating the Atlanta Hawks 136-113.

And New York trimmed Baltimore 110-88 to even their Eastern series at 1-1, a typical Knicks-Bullets playoff set.

The NBA playoffs continue Tuesday with Boston visiting Atlanta and New York at Baltimore. Los Angeles can wrap up its series at Chicago Tuesday and Milwaukee, holding a 2-1 edge, plays at Golden State.

There were no playoffs in the American Basketball Association Sunday, but four games were played Saturday. In the East, Virginia beat the Floridians 125-100 to take a 2-0 lead in that series and New York topped Kentucky 122-108 in their opener. In West Division semifinals, Denver beat Indiana 106-105 to tie the set at 11 and Utah tripped Dallas 106-96 to make it 1-0.

The ABA playoffs continue tonight with Dallas playing at Utah.

The Lakers, led by their brilliant backcourt of Jerry West and Gail Goodrich, moved closer to a four-game sweep. But it wasn't an easy victory.

"It was a tremendous effort by the Bulls," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman. "They gave 110 per cent. We had to shoot well to win and we did."

Chicago was at a disadvantage because center Tom Boerwinkle was out with injuries and forwards Chet Walker and Bob Love played only part-time due to injury.

The Bulls fought back from large deficits to close within two points late in the third quarter and again in the fourth. But each time the Bulls threatened, there was West or Goodrich to throw in killing points.

West wound up with 31 points and Goodrich had 23. Wilt Chamberlain wound up with 16 points for the winners and knocked back several Chicago shots. Norm Van Lier paced the losers with 21 points.

"I told my players after the game they gave me more than I deserved," said Dick Motta, the Chicago coach. "They gave all they had—and more."

The Celtics rode the shooting of John Havlicek, Jo Jo White and Art Williams to victory over Atlanta. White got 15 of his 29 points in the first quarter and Havlicek fired in 15 of his 31 in the second.

Boston had a 48-33 lead at the half and moved it to 95-78 deep in the game as Williams came off the bench to ignite the fast break.

"When Artie gets into the game the team has to move to keep up with him," said Havlicek.

Williams scored 15 of his 19 points in the last stanza to help the Celtics pull away.

"Atlanta forgot that he's a shooter, too," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn. "They gambled on his passing the ball several times, but he shot and scored."

Pete Maravich led Atlanta with 37 points while Walt Bellamy had 21.

New York overwhelmed Baltimore behind Walt Frazier's torrid first-half shooting. Frazier, who finished with a game-high 30 points, scored 19 of them in the first half as the Knicks opened a commanding 56-38 lead at intermission.

Dave DeBusschere finished with 29 and Jerry Lucas added 20 for the Knicks. Archie Clark, who had led Baltimore with 38 points to pace Friday night's victory over the Knicks, wound up with only 18 points to lead the Bullets' scorers Sunday.

"It would have been nice to save some of the points for the next few games," said New York Knicks Coach Red Holzman.

In an off-the-field development, player-coach Lenny Wilkens of the Seattle SuperSonics announced that he was through as a coach. "I've decided to give up the job and continue as a player," Wilkens said.

Royals Hold Workout

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Dressed in civilian attire, 25 of 28 Kansas City Royals baseball players worked out informally Sunday at a junior college here as the baseball strike continued.

The players took two rounds of batting practice, did some infield work and running during the two-hour session.

Neither Bob Lemon nor any of the Royals coaches was present.

A similar workout was to be held today, the players indicated.

The Royals management, meanwhile, cancelled their last two exhibition games scheduled for this afternoon and Tuesday night against the St. Louis Cardinals.

Rookie outfielder Roger Freed of the Philadelphia Phillies knocked in 130 runs for Rochester, N.Y., last season.

After Round of Golf

Gil Hodges Dead of Heart Attack

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Gil Hodges, a loveable giant who won Dodger fans with his bat and Met hearts with his brain, died on Easter Sunday when he should have been in a baseball uniform.

"Gil was walking," said Eddie Yost, "then tumbled backwards."

Yost and fellow New York Mets' coaches Rube Walker and Joe Pignatano had just finished a fun day on the golf course with their manager.

"Only reason we were playing golf," said Pignatano, "was that the players' strike put us out of business. Otherwise, we'd been over in the West Palm Beach ballpark playing the Atlanta Braves."

Yost still was stunned Sunday night.

"Gil had a beer with us," said the man who played 18 years as a major league infielder. "I think he also ate a piece of cake. Gil, Piggy, Rube and me shot the bull with Jack Sanford for awhile."

Sanford, a former star pitcher for the Phillies and Giants, is now golf pro at the public course that sits beside the Ramada Inn on the Lake.

Hodges and his coaches finally said goodbye to Sanford and began walking back to the motel.

Hodges, 6 feet 3 and 205 pounds with hands like a bear, dropped to the ground in front of room 158.

Despite speedy first aid, the man who would have celebrated his 48th birthday Tuesday was dead before he reached Good Samaritan Hospital.

The native of Princeton, Ind., signed with the Brooklyn Dodgers for a $1,000 bonus in 1943 and became a regular after returning from the Marines in 1947.

Hodges was a brilliant first baseman for 11 seasons in Brooklyn, which became his permanent home, and went west with the Dodgers in 1958 for four more years in a Los Angeles uniform.

After two part-time seasons back with a budding New York club called the Mets in 1962-63, Hodges quit to become manager of the Washington Senators for five years through 1967.

His playing career showed a still-standing record of 14 bases-loaded homers along with 1,274 runs batted in, a .273 career average seven World Series, eight All-Star games and a National League record of 370 home runs by a right-handed hitter which has since been surpassed by such modern sluggers as Willie Mays and Hank Aaron.

Hodges came home to New York for a third time in 1968 to manage the Mets, a team more famed for laughs than victories.

After a ninth-place finish the first summer, Hodges marched the Mets to a startling NL pennant and World Series thumping of the Baltimore Orioles in '69.

"We're all still a little glassyeyed," Mets General Manager Bob Scheffing said late Sunday.

"Gil never looked better. He had recovered so well from that attack in Atlanta that most people had forgotten it."

Hodges was felled Sept. 24, 1968, during the Mets' final series the year before the World Series miracle. Until then, he had never suffered heart ailments.

Hodges' body was to be flown to New York today on a United Airlines charter with the Yankees, his long time crosstown rivals.

Met officials refused speculation on a successor to Hodges. "We are thinking about nothing but his family now," said board chairman Donald Grant. "I know its a question reporters must ask, but we just can't think about it at a time of shock such as this."

Walker, an ex-pitcher who was Hodges' Brooklyn teammate in the early 50s, was put in charge when Gil suffered his first attack four years ago.

Much the same type of interim situation was expected should the players return to work in time to open the season before the New York club can choose a new leader.

"People remember Hodges for his home runs and RBIs," said Hall of Famer Max Carey, who was in Miami. "But, he was an artist around first base. He was one of the great fielders of all time."

Hodges' funeral arrangements in Brooklyn were being handled by the Torregrossa Funeral Home, not far from 3472 Bedford Avenue where Gil's family lived and just down the street from the site where Ebbets Field once stood in the day when Hodges was wowing 'em as a slugger.

Strike Situation Remains Same

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball completed its lost weekend and the countdown to opening—or non-opening—day reached two with more meetings scheduled today in an attempt to settle the players' strike in a pension dispute with the owners.

"The situation remains the same," John Gaherin, represening the owners, said following Sunday's session with Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Baseball Players Association. "There is no progress towards a settlement. We will meet again Monday."

Miller said today's get-together probably would be enlarged from his head-to-head weekend meetings with Gaherin. "He's been talking about a fuller committee and I'll probably have one, too," Miller said.

He added that the weekend meetings were spent "rephrasing and reviewing positions. Really, it's been rather fruitless. Mr. Gaherin has no authority to make any new offer. He is pretending to bargain."

The players went on strike Saturday seeking contributions from the owners above the one-and-only $400,000 offer for the health care segment of the pension package.

They contend that an $817,000 surplus in the pension fund—resulting from increased interest rates on loans, overfunding and overestimating payments for permanently disabled players—plus no more than $11,000 from each of the 24 major league clubs would make up the 17 per cent pension rise they seek.

Baseball's current pension plan, covering any player active from 1959 on, provides a pension after four years service. Players, who don't contribute a dime to the plan, may start drawing a pension at their 45th birthday.

A four-year player, at 45, gets $174.34 a month. With 10 years service, the pension at 45 is $436.36 monthly, and $582.36 after 20 eyars. The figures, for the same years of service, at age 65 are $618.04, $1,545.11 and $1,945.11.

Most players scattered from their training camps, but 23 members of the Kansas City Royals worked out in civilian clothes at a junior college in Fort Myers, Fla., and all but four of the Padres were to begin unsupervised workouts today in San Diego.

Meanwhile, Dick O'Connell, general manager of the Boston Red Sox, said he was not optimistic over settlement of the walkout.

"I see no indications of a quick settlement," he said. "I don't see any signs of either side budging."

Sweep Gives Pokes Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma State jumped to the forefront with a three-game sweep over Nebraska as Big Eight baseball teams opened conference play with weather-delayed games over the Easter weekend.

The Cowboys blanked Nebraska twice Friday, 7-0 and 2-0, then OSU came back to bomb the Cornhuskers 9-2 Saturday. Oklahoma State is 5-4 over-all and Nebraska 3-8.

Kansas got excellent pitching from Steve Corder and Bob Cox to down Iowa State 2-0 and 2-1 Sunday and become one of three teams with 2-1 Big Eight marks. The Cyclones had tripped Kansas 9-4 Saturday. The Jayhawks are 9-2 on the season; Iowa State, defending Big Eight champ, is 3-8.

Kansas State swamped Missouri 7-0 Sunday on Bob Leslie's two-hit pitching and three-run homer. The Tigers took the opening game of the series Saturday 4-3 but the Wildcats grabbed the nightcap 6-2. Kansas State is 8-9 while Missouri is 8-7 for the campaign.

Oklahoma split a doubleheader with Colorado Saturday, the Buffaloes winning the opener 11-8 and the Sooners taking the second game 3-1. OU outgunned CU 10-4 Friday. Oklahoma has a 16-8 season mark; Colorado is 4-10.

Conference action is to resume Friday when Oklahoma State is at Iowa State and doubleheaders find Kansas State at Oklahoma, Kansas at Nebraska and Missouri at Colorado.

Leads With 1,838

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Darrell Francis Jr., of Monroe, Mich. rolled series of 578, 645 and 615 here for an 1,838 all events total total to set the pace in the American Bowling Congress Tournament.

Francis, 28, and his partner, Don Laney, also of Monroe, combined for a 1,222 doubles series Sunday.

Harry Kasnow of Saginaw, Mich., continued his domination of the regular all events with 1,946.

ABC Upholds Previous Ruling on Orf's 890

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ray Orf, the St. Louis bowler who rolled an 890 series and thought he had established a world record, has been turned down again in his bid for recognition by the American Bowling Congress.

Lester Townsend of Detroit, chairman of the ABC's High Score and Awards Review Committee, said Saturday that his committee has rejected Orf's appeal of the earlier decision.

Townsend said the committee agreed unanimously to uphold the earlier decision, which said the lanes were "improperly conditioned through use of an unacceptable distribution of dressing."

Orf, manager of Western Bowl, rolled the high series Feb. 6 on the Western Bowl lanes. He had games of 290, 300 and 300, including 35 straight strikes.

Archer Wins Playoff

Disastrous 16th Ends Arnie's Bid

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Arnold Palmer suffered his biggest collapse since the 1966 U.S. Open. Gary Player was disqualified for failing to sign his scorecard. And George Archer had to unpack his car to win the golf tournament.

"I had the car all packed and ready to go," Archer recalled Sunday after Palmer's collapse gave him a second chance in the $200,000 Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I was watching television and when I saw Arnold make that six I said, 'Oops, let's go get the clubs.'"

Archer beat Tommy Aaron on the second hole of sudden death. Palmer finished third, tied with Dave Stockton, Chi Chi Rodriguez and J.C. Snead.

Archer and Aaron were in the clubhouse with scores of 12-under-par 272s when the dynamic Palmer burst out of a four-way tie for the lead with consecutive birdies on the 14th and 15th holes.

A 15-footer on the 15th gave the 42-year-old Palmer a two-stroke lead with three holes to play in the chase for the $40,000 first prize.

A broad smile creased his face when he went to the 16th tee on the Sedgefield Country Club course, a tough, 225-yard par three.

His usual massive gallery groaned when his wood shot began hooking far to the left, and came to rest in a shallow creek.

Palmer elected to play it out of the creek, and splashed it up short of a sand trap—but still had the bunker to negotiate to reach the green.

He dumped the little chip square in the trap, blasted out and two-putted for a six that knocked him out of the lead and put him one stroke behind.

Palmer parred in, then shouldered past officials, shrugged off newsman and didn't even go to the locker room. The pilot of his private plane had to run to keep up as he left immediately without speaking to anyone.

That triple bogey represented his biggest collapse since he blew a seven-stroke lead with nine holes to play in the 1966 U.S. Open, which he lost in a playoff to Billy Casper. He had a final round 70 for 273.

And the big six left it up to the 6-foot-6 Archer and the smooth-swinging Aaron to battle it out in sudden death—the seventh playoff of the season and the second time they'd faced each other.

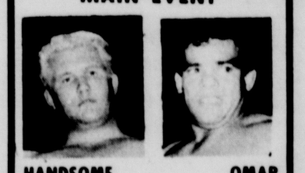

Both made routine pars on the first extra hole, the 15th. And then the 16th snapped up Aaron. Archer, who won the Los Angeles Open in a playoff with Aaron and Dave Hill, put his tee shot on the green.

But Aaron found another branch of the creek on the other side of the green, dropped out, chipped short and missed a long putt. He was lying four when Archer two-putted from 25 feet for the par that gave the former ranch hand his 10th tour title.

For first month's protection, mail Enrollment Form with 25¢ to get up to $500 a month tax free cash

when you go to the hospital

You collect at the rate of...

$500 a month cash
when you require hospital care . . . for each accident starting the first day in the hospital, and for each illness, starting the sixth day—$16.67 a day for life, if necessary.

$250 a month cash
If you're 65 or over, for the first 3 months of hospitalization. This money is paid directly to you in addition to Medicare or any other coverage you may already have. After 3 months, if you are still in the hospital, you then receive . . .

$500 a month cash
thereafter—in addition to Medicare benefits—even for life, if necessary. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the sixth day.

$300 a month cash
when your child goes to the hospital for any accident or illness, when you have Coverage for Children—no matter how long the confinement may be. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital; sickness coverage begins the sixth day.

$500 a month cash
for maternity benefits when Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits have been added to the basic plan.

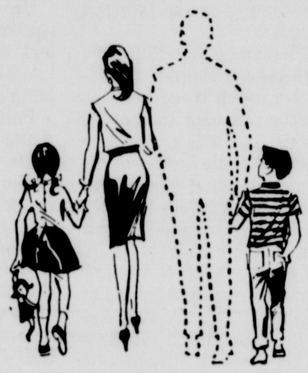

$400 a month cash
for a registered nurse at home if your doctor has you hire one within five days following a covered hospital confinement of five days or more for as long as you were hospitalized — up to one year.

UP TO $2,000 cash
for complete accidental loss of limbs or eyesight. If you suffer complete loss of a hand or foot or the sight of an eye within 90 days of the accident, you collect $1,000—and $2,000 for the loss of two limbs or the sight of both eyes.

$2,000 a month cash
$1,000 a month for you—and $1,000 a month for your spouse...when an accident hospitalizes covered husband and wife at the same time. Yes, you collect $2,000 A MONTH in all (when under 65) while both are in the hospital—even for life.

We pay all premiums that come due for you and all covered members of your family should you — the policyowner — be hospitalized for eight consecutive weeks or more. And you don't have to pay us back.

We guarantee never to cancel your protection
no matter how many claims you have . . . or how old you become . . . or for any reason whatsoever. Only you can cancel.

We guarantee never to raise your low rates because of how old you become . . . or how many claims you have . . . but only if there is a general rate adjustment on all policies of this class in your entire state.

NO AGE LIMIT • NO MEDICAL EXAM TO ENROLL • NO SALESMAN OR AGENT WILL CALL

OVER 30 million people will be admitted to a hospital this year! It could be you—or some beloved member of your family—tomorrow . . . next week . . . next month. Sad to say, very few families have anywhere near enough coverage to meet today's soaring hospital costs. These costs have more than doubled in just a few short years.

Stop for a moment. Think how much a long stay in the hospital will cost you or a loved one. How would you ever pay for costly, but necessary, X-rays, doctor bills, drugs and medicines? What would you do if your pay check stopped, but living expenses kept going on the same as ever? The same rent, phone, food, all the day-to-day expenses that never stop.

What is the average breadwinner to do? We believe we have the answer in this National Home plan.

Pays you $500.00 a month tax-free cash when you are hospitalized.

Now you can have $500.00 cash coming in every month—beginning the very first day you enter the hospital due to an accident, and the sixth day for confinements due to sickness. You collect $500.00 a month, even for life, if necessary.

The cash is paid directly to you in addition to whatever you may receive from your insurance with any other companies. Use the money as you see fit—for hospital or doctors' bills. To replace savings or cover household expenses. Every dollar is tax-free.

How much does $500.00 a month protection cost you? Only 25¢ covers you and your entire family for the first month. After that you may continue at our regular low rates.

Pays you $300.00 a month cash when any unmarried dependent child is hospitalized.

When you choose Coverage for Children, this National Home plan pays you at the rate of $300.00 a month cash when one of your children is hospitalized. Pays for as long as necessary! Children are covered for accidents from the first day and for sickness from the sixth day.

Pays you at the rate of $500.00 a month for Maternity Benefits!

If both husband and wife are insured for the entire period of pregnancy (and have added Coverage for Children and Maternity Benefits), you get tax-free cash to use any way you want. Yes, if a pregnancy, childbirth or even miscarriage puts you in the hospital for one day, five days, ten days—as long as necessary—you get cash benefits for every day of your confinement.

Pays you $400.00 a month cash for a Registered Nurse at Home.

How comforting it is to know that—after your stay in the hospital, if you've been there five days or more for which you received benefits—you can return home to recuperate and yet not be a burden to your loved ones. If your doctor has you employ a full-time registered nurse within 5 days after you come home, we'll pay you benefits at the rate of $400.00 a month. And your benefits continue for the same number of covered days that you were in the hospital—even up to 12 full months.

Double Cash Accident Benefit.

When you and your insured spouse are hospitalized at the same time for an accidental injury, this National Home plan pays each of you DOUBLE CASH. $1,000.00 a month apiece. That's $2,000.00 in cash payments every month (when under age 65) starting the day you enter the hospital for as long as you both remain there.

Waiver of premium benefit.

After 8 continuous weeks of confinement, your premiums that come due are taken care of by National Home. And your protection continues just the same as if you were paying the premiums yourself.

Dear Friend:

You know me. I wouldn't recommend anything I didn't honestly believe in. And I think National Home's $500-a-month plan is just about the best additional financial protection you can give your family -- especially in these days of rising medical costs.

That's why I'm happy to give this plan my wholehearted endorsement.

I've looked over the policy very carefully. I've made a point of getting to know some of the folks at National Home. And you won't find more decent, friendly people to deal with. I've seen the way they handle claims, too -- quickly and generously. Believe me, when you need them, they'll be there to help you.

That's why I cannot imagine anybody passing up the chance to enroll in this health plan -- especially when the first month's protection costs only 25¢.

We all know what a terrible thing it is to be hospitalized. But what a relief it is to know there's tax-free cash coming in when you need it most! Take my advice. Send the enrollment form now -- before you forget.

Sincerely,

Art Linkletter

65 or over?

You collect benefits in addition to Medicare!

We have designed this plan as a valuable addition to whatever is paid by Medicare—or health insurance you may have with other companies. Regardless of the coverage you already have, National Home pays you at the rate of $250.00 a month for the first 3 months, and $500.00 monthly while hospitalized thereafter. Coverage for accidents begins the very first day in the hospital. Sickness coverage begins the sixth day. Both coverages continue for life, if necessary.

These are the only exclusions!

Your National Home policy covers every kind of sickness or accident except conditions caused by: war, or any act of war; any mental disease or disorder; pregnancy, except as provided under the Maternity Benefit provision; and pre-existing conditions which manifested themselves before start of policy (and even these conditions are covered after policy is in force for 2 years).

Nationally known and respected.

This is the kind of outstanding protection you may have seen in Reader's Digest, Better Homes & Gardens, TV Guide, and other leading publications. The special plans offered by National Home are today helping policyowners in 46 states—and many foreign countries—paying benefits on an average of ONE MILLION DOLLARS a month. In addition, our Company has a RECOMMENDED rating from Best's Insurance Reports, one of the foremost insurance authorities in the nation.

Fast, Reliable Claim Service.

"We were most happy with the prompt way that you sent us the claim forms when requested. Your check for the week my husband was in the hospital was received within ten days. Thank you so much — it really helped in a time of need."
MRS. ROBERT H. ROBINSON, Miami, Fla.

"I took out the policy and had only paid two monthly premiums when I was unexpectedly put in the hospital. Was there 11 days and the National Home Life Assurance Company paid exactly what they had said they would. How happy we were we had taken the policy out."
DEWEY M. FAILOR, Upper Sandusky, Ohio

Why you must act before the date shown on your Enrollment Form — just a few days from today.

Why do we give you so little time to enroll in this plan? Because this is a limited enrollment offer, we can open the enrollment only during a limited time period—with a firm deadline date for everyone. To provide you with this broad coverage at these rates, we must receive your Enrollment Form during the same period as all the others.

Here are your low rates.

The following chart shows how little it costs after the first month, to cover yourself, your spouse or any adult dependent. Naturally, at these low rates, we can issue you only one policy of this type. Each adult, 16 or over, pays the rate shown for his or her age.

Age at Enrollment	Monthly Premium per Adult
16-44	only $2.95
45-49	only $3.40
50-54	only $3.75
55-74	only $4.35
75-79	only $5.00
80-84	only $5.55
85 and over	only $6.65

Only $1.55 more per month covers all your unmarried dependent children . . . from the age of 1 month through 18 years. Newborn children are covered automatically at the age of one month—at no additional cost! And then, if you wish, just add $1.15 monthly to that, and you're covered for Maternity Benefits, too!

NOTE: The regular monthly premium shown (for age at time of enrollment) will not automatically increase as you pass from one age bracket to the next. Once you have enrolled in this National Home plan, your rate can never be changed because of how much or how often you collect from us—or because of advanced age—but only if there is a general rate adjustment, on all policies of this class in your entire state.

Act now—"later" may be too late! Send just 25¢ for first month's coverage.

TIME IS PRECIOUS! Act quickly. (No salesman will call.) Get your Enrollment Form into the mail today—because once you suffer an accident or sickness, it's TOO LATE to buy protection at any cost. That's why we urge you to act today—before the unexpected happens.

Money-Back Guarantee

We will send your National Home policy by mail. Examine it carefully. If you decide that you don't want to continue as a member of this plan, return the policy within 15 days of the date you receive it, and we will promptly refund your money.

the boss' promise

QUALITY:

I promise you a total quality guarantee on every item in every department that says, "You must be fully satisfied or we will replace the item or refund your money — whichever you prefer."

If for any reason you feel that this promise is not being fulfilled, I want to hear from you directly. Simply ask your Kroger Store Manager for my private phone number and call me.

We're dedicated to the proposition that there's always something extra in store for you at Kroger, and I want to follow through personally on my promise to see that you get it.
